SASKATOON metro®

NEWS WORTH SHARING.

Tutti Frutti
BUY ONE GET ONE FREE

Science behind an out-of-body experience

University of Ottawa researchers take close look at woman's brain PAGE 6

FROM SKINNY JEANS TO TALKING GOALIE SCREENS

GEORGE STROUMBOULOPOULOS NAMED HOST OF HOCKEY NIGHT IN CANADA, BUT RON AND DON ARE STICKING AROUND PAGE 21

Doug's SPOKE N SPORT
KONA'S FIRST FAT BIKE THE WO... 4" TIRES...
$1799
SALE PRICE $1549
KONA
Grosvenor Park Mall - 8th Street E
306-373-4224
spokensport.com

Student union blasts U of S tuition hike

Education. Average increase is set at 4.5% for 2014-15 academic year

MORGAN MODJESKI
morgan.modjeski@metronews.ca

A tuition increase announced by the University of Saskatchewan has the union that represents its students up in arms.

The University of Saskatchewan Students' Union (USSU) is condemning the increase for the 2014-15 academic year, saying its members are paying too much to an institution in the process of potentially axing support services and programs.

On Monday, the U of S announced that undergraduate students will see an increase of up to 5.5 per cent. Jordan Sherbino, the USSU's vice-president of academic affairs, charged that the hike is "unreasonable."

"With TransformUS and systematic cuts unlike we've ever seen before at this university, we're seeing students' programs getting cut," Sherbino said.

"Yet students are still expected to pay more and more."

In December, the U of S released two reports as part of its TransformUS budget-cutting initiative, ranking support and academic services in hopes of chopping $25 million in operating costs.

Sherbino said students were left out of the process and should have more input in the institution's governing decisions, especially those directly affecting them.

"When we see an increase in tuition, it's not simply another little speed bump on the way to coming here. It's a full-on wall," he said.

Graduate students will see an average increase of four per cent.

However, Brett Fairbairn, provost and vice-president academic at the U of S, said the increase is based on "principles and comparisons between universities" and has nothing to do with balancing the budget.

"Our view," Fairbairn said, "is that we should set our tuition fees according to principle, and that will determine how much revenue we get."

U of S president Ilene Busch-Vishniac is reviewing the reports ranking programs and is expected to make recommendations by the end of April.

LEAVE IT TO MCKEEVER

Brian McKeever, right, and guide Erik Carleton of Canada pose at the flower ceremony after winning gold in the men's 20-kilometre visually impaired cross-country ski event at the Paralympic Winter Games on Monday in Sochi, Russia. Story, page 22. MARK KOLBE/GETTY IMAGES

WHL

Blades' starting pot for 50/50 draw set at $50K

The Saskatoon Blades are hoping to make WHL history this weekend.

As part of the team's final game of its 50th season, the Blades are starting the 50/50 draw at this Saturday's game against the Prince Albert Raiders at $50,000 as soon as the doors open.

"As far as we can gather, this is the biggest starting pot for a 50/50 prize in WHL history," said Colin Priestner, managing partner with the Blades, in a release.

The draw will also mark the team's fan appreciation night and officials are predicting the massive pot will eventually climb to more than $100,000 at Saturday's game.

"We've had this in our plans for the entire season but wanted to save this announcement for the final week of the year, to give our fans a well-earned surprise," he said.

"The sky is going to be the limit."

All of the proceeds from the 50/50 draw will go to the Saskatoon Blades Education Fund. METRO

Grain transportation still causing controversy in Sask.

Federal order. CN and CP will be forced to move a minimum of one million tonnes of grain weekly

SARAH TAGUIAM
Metro in Regina

Grain transportation remains the hot topic in Saskatchewan following the federal government's order to force Canada's two major railways to double the grain they ship weekly.

The federal New Democrats are touring the province, calling for more aggressive measures to end a backlog stalling shipments for months.

And the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities (SARM) annual convention in Regina this week will wade into the issue.

"The main issue in our delegates' minds is probably grain transportation," SARM president David Marit said on Monday.

An order-in-council was issued by Ottawa on Friday, forcing Canadian National and Canadian Pacific to begin moving a minimum of one million tonnes of grain in 11,000 cars weekly within a month.

The companies will be slapped with a maximum of $100,000 in fines daily if they fail to comply.

Quoted

"The main issue in our delegates' minds is probably grain transportation."

David Marit, president of the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities

Federal NDP agriculture critic Malcolm Allen said CN and CP had already promised that number of cars for the spring, prior to the order.

"What do you do with a crop that's larger than normal … or when you run into a situation like the cold winter we've had?" Allen said in Regina.

"There's no plan for that."

The federal Conservative government plans to table legislation dealing with the backlog on March 24.

"Our government will introduce legislation … that will help address logistics challenges in the medium and long term — legislation that we expect all opposition parties to pass quickly as they previously indicated they would do," federal Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz told Metro in an email.

Ritz and federal Transport Minister Lisa Raitt are slated to address the SARM convention on Wednesday.

David Marit, president of the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities, is gearing up for an upcoming convention, where grain transportation will be a major topic. SARAH TAGUIAM/METRO IN REGINA

NDP urges Harper to improve fire service on reserves

NDP Leader Cam Broten
MARCO VIGLIOTTI/METRO IN REGINA

The Saskatchewan NDP is pressing Ottawa to improve firefighting at First Nation reserves.

The call comes after four children died in house fires in the province in the past six months.

NDP Leader Cam Broten has written a letter to Prime Minister Stephen Harper asking for more action.

The New Democrats point out that the death rate in house fires at reserves is more than 10 times that of comparable off-reserve municipalities.

"I called on the Prime Minister to provide the right funding in place for fire prevention, for fire … education and fighting fires," Broten told reporters on Monday.

Broten acknowledged that such services at reserves are the jurisdiction of the federal government.

Still, he is urging Premier Brad Wall to also pen a letter to Harper in hopes of a unified voice spurring Ottawa into action.

Jim Reiter, minister responsible for First Nations, Métis and northern affairs, said he will discuss it with his federal counterpart Bernard Valcourt.

Fire safety at reserves recently leaped into the media spotlight after two young boys were killed in a blaze at Pelican Narrows earlier this year.

Critics point out that an old fire truck in Pelican Narrows was not operational.

The truck didn't even make it to the scene of the blaze.

A report by the federal Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Department acknowledges a "need for greater action on fire protection" at First Nation reserves.

MARCO VIGLIOTTI/METRO IN REGINA

FUTURE 40 CATCHUP: MELISSA FIACCO

CBC's Future 40 project is entering its second year — this time partnering with Metro to showcase Saskatchewan's upcoming young leaders on multiple platforms. All this week, Metro will be featuring a profile of one 2013 winner.

JACOB MORGAN
jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

Melissa Fiacco draws inspiration from her home province.

Born and raised in Regina, Fiacco was featured last year in CBC Saskatchewan's Future 40 contest. Since then, the 29-year-old communications professional has enjoyed a busy 12 months.

"It's actually been one of the best years I've experienced," says Fiacco.

Canadian Manufacturers and Exporters (CME) recruited her in September as director of membership and public relations for Saskatchewan.

An important aspect of the job is promoting the province's diverse economy. In 2013, said Fiacco, the manufacturing sector achieved a record high with $15.2 billion in sales.

"I always assumed — like a lot of people — that Saskatchewan was almost exclusively producing agricultural equipment," she said. "(But) it's producing military equipment (and) unique technology. And the research and development area is really interesting."

Prior to Fiacco's position at CME, she spent more than a year as visitor services manager with Tourism Regina and has also contributed to Saskatchewan Fashion Week and the Saskatchewan Young Professionals and Entrepreneurs organization.

"They are absolutely all interconnected," she said.

The common thread is Fiacco's dedication to civic engagement, which she said she learned from her father, Pat Fiacco, the former mayor of Regina.

"People need to collaborate with each other and with government in order to achieve a quality of life they can be proud of," she said.

While Fiacco said she doesn't have plans to run for office, she remembers her family's supper-table conversations about municipal issues.

"One of my dream jobs is to be a senior adviser to a political leader like Brad Wall," she said. "I don't attribute that to his ideology, I attribute that to what he embodies and represents as a leader."

Dedication to civic engagement

"People need to collaborate with each other and with government in order to achieve a quality of life they can be proud of." Melissa Fiacco

Future 40 project

For more information on CBC's Future 40 project, head over to cbc.ca/sask.

Ambassador Wall? Premier jokes dream job after trip to Washington

Premier Brad Wall was back in the legislature Monday after a trip to Washington last week, facing questions about his future.

Wall was asked if he'd like to be Canada's ambassador to the United States.

"I mean, I'd be lying if I didn't say that would be an interesting position to have ... I think I'd like to do that, (or) CFL commissioner or voice-overs for Disney," he joked with reporters.

Wall was first elected as an MLA in 1999 and became Saskatchewan Party leader in 2004. He led the party to its first election victory in 2007 and repeated the feat in 2011.

He announced last month that he wants to stick around for a third term.

The next provincial election was to take place in November 2015, but has been bumped back to April 2016 so that it doesn't overlap with a federal vote.

When asked if he would serve a full third term, Wall said: "I am applying for one job in the next little while and that's the same job I have. I'm going to ask for a contract extension."

Wall was in Washington talking up his province's work on carbon capture and storage.

He also made more pitches for approval of the Keystone XL pipeline.

MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO

Poverty Costs. Campaign rallying support for poverty-reduction plan

A new campaign is aimed at giving Saskatchewan some perspective on the cost of poverty — the $3.8 billion that its organizers claim is spent in the province on the issue every year.

And the Poverty Costs campaign wants the public to voice support for a legislated strategy to deal with it.

"A poverty-reduction plan would build on those efforts and would tie them together," said Alison Robertson, community development director with the Saskatoon Food Bank and Learning Centre, one of the project's partners.

"On a provincial level, a lot of the work is already underway."

Launched on Monday in Saskatoon at Station 20 West and running until March 15, the campaign will hold events to push for a comprehensive plan in Saskatchewan.

Equipped with stories and statistics, organizers want the public to spread the word through social media and to sign a letter urging the province to get on board.

Cory Neudorf, chief medical health officer with the Saskatoon Health Region, said the project is "vital" because poverty significantly affects health.

"Health-care costs are growing at an unsustainable level," Neudorf said, "and we simply can't afford to keep putting Band-Aids on as solutions."

Saskatoon police are supporting the effort, which is organized, as well, by the Saskatoon Anti-Poverty Coalition, the Upstream think-tank and the Unite Digital Marketing Co-op.

More information is available at povertycosts.ca.

MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO

Alison Robertson, director of community development at the Saskatoon Food Bank and Learning Centre, left, with Rachel Malena of think-tank Upstream. Together, they've launched Poverty Costs. MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO

METRO CUSTOM PUBLISHING

Ding! Ding!
TRANSIT TUESDAY

OPEN HOUSE: SASKATOON TRANSIT 2014 ROUTE ADJUSTMENTS

Saskatoon Transit is proposing a series of Route Adjustments for 2014, and we would like your feedback before a final proposal is presented to council.

The proposed 2014 Route Adjustments were designed based on comments and ideas previously gathered from you, our customers. Each event will include a brief presentation, followed by a Q&A session and an opportunity for attendees to visit information stations. Transit staff will also be available to answer questions and hear what you have to say about the proposed route adjustments.

Plans are to incorporate your feedback into the proposed adjustments and present a final report to Council for their approval.

The open house events will be held:

Tuesday, March 11, 2014
6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.
Mount Royal Collegiate Cafeteria (2220 Rusholme Road)

Wednesday March 12, 2014
6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.
Alice Turner Library (110 Nelson Road)

Free shuttles will be provided every 15 minutes from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. between the open house locations and the nearest mall terminal.

For more information, visit saskatoon.ca and click on "T" for Transit or call the Transit Customer Service Centre at 306-975-3100.

MONTHLY PASS REMINDER

Transit customers are reminded that monthly passes are valid for the calendar month purchased and not one month from the date of purchase. If you have questions about your pass or tickets, visit the Customer Service Centre or call 306-975-3100

LOST OR FOUND SOMETHING ON THE BUS?

Call 306-975-3100 or visit Saskatoon Transit's Customer Service Centre on 23rd Street in the Downtown Bus Mall.

i take the bus.
Don't worry about parking. Enjoy a relaxing, hands-free commute and catch up on the things that really matter.
SASKATOON transit
DELIVERING BUS RIDER PRIDE

Oscar Pistorius buries his head in his hand as he listens to questioning during his trial Monday in Pretoria, South Africa, regarding the events surrounding the shooting death of his girlfriend, Reeva Steenkamp. BONGIWE MCHUNU/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/POOL

Pistorius trial continues with graphic testimony

Pretoria. Amputee athlete vomits in courtroom as Reeva Steenkamp's gunshot wounds are described

Oscar Pistorius vomited in the dock and retched repeatedly and loudly at his murder trial Monday as he heard graphic details of the injuries sustained by the girlfriend he shot, including a head wound that was probably instantly fatal, according to the pathologist who performed her autopsy.

Reeva Steenkamp was shot with bullets designed to expand on impact and cause maximum damage, Prof. Gert Saayman testified after he identified the type of bullet from fragments in Steenkamp's skull.

Saayman also gave his expert opinion on how long before she died Steenkamp last ate, by the food contents in her stomach. He estimated that it wouldn't have been more than two hours before she died. That appeared to contradict Pistorius's version that suggests the couple had eaten and were in bed by 10 p.m. Steenkamp was shot after 3 a.m.

Saayman's testimony was not broadcast or reported live on Twitter by journalists because of its explicit content under an order from Judge Thokozile Masipa. However, journalists were allowed to report the testimony without directly quoting the witness's words.

As the double-amputee runner, hunched over on a bench, vomited as he heard the description of Steenkamp's wounds, Masipa briefly halted the testimony to ask chief defence lawyer Barry Roux to attend to his client.

The judge also asked whether Pistorius was able to understand the proceedings. Roux said Pistorius's reaction was not going to change. A bucket was placed at his feet.

After court adjourned for the day, Pistorius sat for a few minutes with his hands over his ears and his body heaving and bent forward as his brother held a hand on his back.

Pistorius, the first amputee to run in the Olympics, is charged with premeditated murder for the shooting death of 29-year-old Steenkamp before dawn on Feb. 14, 2013.

Pistorius, 27, says the killing was accidental because he thought his girlfriend was a dangerous intruder when he shot her through the door of a toilet cubicle in his home. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Edward Snowden speaks to crowd of 3,000 at SXSW tech conference

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

NSA leaker Edward Snowden called for public oversight of U.S. intelligence programs during a web-streamed speech at SXSW Interactive Monday, one of the most anticipated segments of the technology conference.

Snowden, appearing remotely from Russia where he remains in exile, urged attendees to take more control over how the various intelligence agencies interact with citizens. The speech marked the first time Snowden has addressed U.S. citizens directly since going into exile.

"South by Southwest and the tech community, the people in the room in Austin, they're the folks who can fix this," Snowden said. "We need public oversight, some way for trusted public figures to advocate for us. We need a watchdog that watches Congress, because if we're not informed, we can't consent to these policies."

When asked by an attendee if he had any regrets about his decision to leak classified NSA documents, Snowden replied that he would "absolutely" do it again.

"Regardless of what happens to me, this is something that we had the right to do," he said, a copy of the U.S. Constitution serving as his backdrop. "I took an oath to support and defend the Constitution. And I saw the Constitution was being violated on a massive scale."

While the speech drew generally positive responses from the crowd, it had been preceded by criticism and controversy, with Rep. Mike Pompeo urging the conference in an open letter to cancel the event, calling Snowden a traitor and common criminal.

Snowden's speech was viewed by 3,000 conference attendees filling the main auditorium at the Austin Convention Center. Two overflow rooms had been set up by the conference, with the speech also streamed live by the Texas Tribune.

A screen grab of NSA leaker Edward Snowden. CONTRIBUTED

‘You can’t get any more evil’: Killer’s dad

Newtown massacre. Peter Lanza breaks his silence more than a year after his son killed 20 first-graders and six educators

In his most extensive comments about the 2012 Connecticut school massacre, the father of gunman Adam Lanza describes his struggle to comprehend what his son did — an act that “couldn’t get any more evil” — and how he now wishes that his son had never been born.

Peter Lanza also told The New Yorker magazine that he believes Adam would have killed him, too, if he had the chance. And he often contemplates what he could have done differently in his relationship with Adam, although he believes the killings couldn’t have been predicted.

“Any variation on what I did and how my relationship was had to be good, because no outcome could be worse,” Peter Lanza said. “You can’t get any more evil.… How much do I beat up on myself about the fact that he’s my son? A lot.”

He said he hadn’t seen his son in two years when Adam killed 20 first-graders and six educators at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown in December 2012. Adam killed himself as police arrived. He earlier fatally shot his mother, Nancy, in their Newtown home.

The interviews are Peter Lanza’s first public comments since he released a statement the day after the massacre expressing sympathy for the victims’ families and puzzlement over his son’s actions.

Peter Lanza believes his son had no affection for him at the time of the shootings.

“With hindsight, I know Adam would have killed me in a heartbeat, if he’d had the chance. I don’t question that for a minute,” he told the magazine. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adam Lanza
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Radioactive water hampers Fukushima cleanup

A staff member of the Tokyo Electric Power Co. speaks to journalists in front of the No. 1 reactor at the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant during a press tour in Okuma town, Japan, Monday. The radioactive water that has accumulated at the crippled nuclear power plant remains the biggest problem hampering the cleanup process three years after the disaster. KOJI SASAHARA-POOL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alzheimer’s. Senior lived with husband’s body, did not realize he was dead

An elderly woman who suffers from Alzheimer’s disease lived with her husband’s body for a month after he died not realizing what happened, authorities said Monday.

The body of Jesse Kirby, 76, was discovered Friday in his bed when police went to the home in Decatur, Ala., to check on the couple. Living inside the house was his wife, Doris Kirby, 78, who was hospitalized after the discovery.

The man apparently died of natural causes in his sleep about four weeks ago.

The door was closed to the bedroom where the man died. Police saw the man’s body through a window. Two dogs that apparently died of starvation were found in the bedroom.

The coroner said the man has two children, but neither realized what had happened because the Kirbys were “sort of loners.”

The children, who are grown, believed the man was taking care of the couple’s needs, he said.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

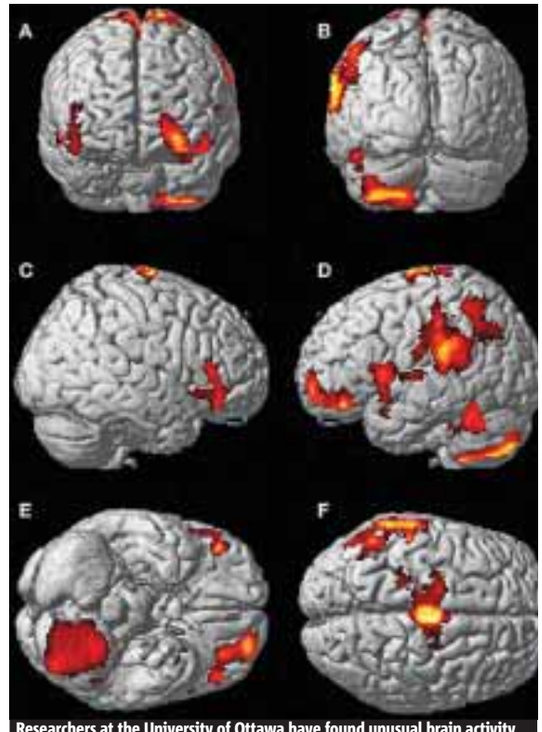
Bieber a no-show for first court date

Justin Bieber's lawyer Brian Greenspan talks to media outside court as Bieber fans look on in Toronto on Monday. The roughly two dozen Bieber fans were left heartbroken when the teen heartthrob did not show up for his first court date. The pop star faces assault charges relating to an alleged incident involving a limo driver in December of last year. CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Out-of-body experience finds a safe landing pad in science

U of O. Researchers conducted a study on a woman who can voluntarily have an out-of-body experience

LUCY SCHOLEY
lucy.scholey@metronews.ca



Researchers at the University of Ottawa have found unusual brain activity that could be linked to the feeling of an out-of-body experience. CONTRIBUTED

An out-of-body experience might sound like something from a paranormal movie or a religious cult, but a pair of researchers from the University of Ottawa have the science to back the curious case.

Claude Messier and Andra Smith conducted a study on a woman who can voluntarily have an out-of-body experience. It had become common practice for the 24-year-old, who said she started doing it when she was a child to help her fall asleep.

Messier and Smith conducted functional MRI scans of the woman while in this state and found that there's brain activity linked to the feeling of being lifted out of one's body or seeing one's body while outside of it. They had her imagine she was doing jumping jacks or roll over while in this out-of-body state.

Normally, when one imagines doing jumping jacks, both sides of the brain are active. But in this woman's out-of-body state, the scanned images showed activity predominately on the left side of the brain.

"That was a cue to us that we were just doing something different than just regular imagery," said Messier.

"It was a bit of a surprise and we certainly didn't expect anything special," he said, adding that they tested her twice. "We were a bit unsure, skeptical, that this was actually happening."

This woman was an interesting case, said Messier, because most people have out-of-body experiences following a traumatic event or drug use. While typically frightening — especially for those experiencing them for the first time — this woman was able to do it on her own terms.

Since this study was published, Messier said he's heard from other people who say they can voluntarily have out-of-body experiences. He's also seen blog articles that link this study to religion or paranormal activity, but he said those are misleading.

"There's science that backs the idea that the brain generates our body image and that changes in the brain, very often pathological, can induce the out-of-body experience," he said.

Quoted

"There's science that backs the idea that the brain generates our body image and that changes in the brain, very often pathological, can induce the out-of-body experience."

Claude Messier, a researcher at U of O

Research

Most people have out-of-body experiences following a traumatic event or drug use.

- These experiences are typically frightening — especially for those experiencing them for the first time.

Heroin a 'public health crisis.' First responders should carry antidote: U.S. attorney general

U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder on Monday called an increase in heroin-related deaths an "urgent and growing public health crisis" and said first responders should carry with them a drug that can reverse the effects of an overdose.

The video message posted on the Justice Department's website reflects the federal government's concern about the growing prevalence of heroin and prescription painkillers. The number of overdose deaths involving heroin increased by 45 per cent between 2006 and 2010, according to the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy.

"Addiction to heroin and other opiates, including certain prescription pain-killers, is impacting the lives of Americans in every state, in every region, and from every background and walk of life — and all too often, with deadly results," Holder said in the message.

His public support for an antidote that could be used to rescue overdosing drug users mirrors the position of the White House drug policy office, which has also urged all first responders to have the medication on hand. At least 17 states, including Washington, D.C., allow naloxone — commonly known by the brand name Narcan — to be distributed to the public, and bills are pending in some states to increase access to it.

Advocates say Narcan, which comes in a spray and injectable form, has the potential to save many lives if administered within a certain window. But critics fear that making the antidote too accessible could encourage drug use.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quoted

"Confronting this crisis will require a combination of enforcement and treatment. The Justice Department is committed to both."

U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder

Barrie, Ont.

Mom arrested for allegedly getting child to steal

A woman is facing charges after allegedly distracting a cashier so her young child could steal items from a store. Police in Barrie say an eight-year-old was pushing a shopping cart loaded with $1,500 worth of power tools out to a waiting taxi, while the mother was distracting store staff. Investigators say the woman was arrested and the child was sent home in the taxi.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

10.7 billion trips

Public transit booming in U.S.

Americans are boarding public buses, trains and subways in greater numbers than any time since the suburbs began booming. Nearly 10.7 billion trips in 2013, to be precise — the highest total since 1956, according to ridership data reported by transit systems nationally and released Monday by the American Public Transportation Association.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New research. Elephants can discern among languages, gender: Study

Wild elephants can distinguish between human languages, and they can tell whether a voice comes from a man, woman or boy, a new study says.

That's what researchers found when they played recordings of people for elephants in Kenya. Scientists say this is an advanced thinking skill that other animals haven't shown. It lets elephants figure out who is a threat and who isn't.

The result shows that while humans are studying elephants, the clever animals are also studying people and drawing on their famed powers of memory, said study author Karen McComb.

"Basically they have developed this very rich knowledge of the humans that they share their habitat with," said McComb, a professor of animal behaviour and cognition at the University of Sussex in England.

The study was released Monday in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wild elephant in Amboseli National Park in Kenya reacts to sound played by scientists in experiments that show they can distinguish between human languages and genders. GRAEME SHANNON, UNIVERSITY OF SUSSEX/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Florida

Injured skydiver plans to jump again

A skydiver injured when a small plane crashed into him in Florida says he'll jump again as soon as he feels safe.

Forty-nine-year-old John Frost told ABC's Good Morning America in an interview that aired Monday that he's sore and has some bruises, but no broken bones.

On Saturday, his parachute got entangled with an aircraft piloted by 87-year-old Shannon L. Trembely.

Officials say Trembely was doing takeoff and landing manoeuvres in his Cessna near the South Lakeland Airport when he encountered Frost on his third landing pass. They were about 23 metres above the ground.

Trembley's Cessna nose-dived into the ground. Frost was also tossed to the ground. Both men were taken to the hospital but escaped serious injury. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Under watch. U.S. plans to monitor workers with security clearances

Stung by internal security lapses, U.S. intelligence officials plan to use a sweeping electronic system to continually monitor workers with secret clearances, current and former officials told The Associated Press.

The system is intended to identify rogue agents, corrupt officials and leakers and draws on a Defence Department model under development for more than a decade, according to officials and documents reviewed by the AP.

Intelligence officials have long wanted a computerized system that could monitor employees, in part to foil leakers like former National Security Agency analyst Edward Snowden, whose revelations bared massive U.S. surveillance operations. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

People hold a banner and candles during a candlelight vigil in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, on Monday for passengers aboard the missing plane. LAI SENG SIN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missing plane: Travel agents questioned

Malaysia Airlines. Search effort widened to find the vanished jet

Authorities questioned travel agents Monday at a beach resort in Thailand about two men who boarded the vanished Malaysia Airlines plane with stolen passports, part of a growing international investigation into what they were doing on the flight.

Nearly three days after the Boeing 777 with 239 people on board disappeared en route from Kuala Lumpur to Beijing, no debris has been seen in Southeast Asian waters.

Five passengers who checked in for Flight MH370 didn't board the plane, and their luggage was removed from it, Malaysian authorities said. Malaysian Transport Minister Hishammuddin Hussein said this also was being investigated, but he didn't say whether this was suspicious.

The search effort, involving at least 34 aircraft and 40 ships from several countries, was being widened to a 185-kilometre radius from the point the plane vanished from radar screens between Malaysia and Vietnam early Saturday with no distress signal.

Possible causes of the apparent crash include an explosion, catastrophic engine failure, terrorist attack, extreme turbulence, pilot error or even suicide, according to experts, many of whom cautioned against speculation because so little is known. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At a glance

- Two of the passengers were travelling on passports stolen in Thailand and had onward tickets to Europe, but it's not known whether the two men had anything to do with the plane's disappearance.
- The stolen passports, one belonging to Christian Kozel of Austria and the other to Luigi Maraldi of Italy, were entered into Interpol's database after they were taken in Thailand in 2012 and 2013, according to police.

Aviation security

Missing jet exposes gaps in passport control measures

When you travel, airport security agents may pat you down, inspect your deodorant and scan your body from head to toe. But there's a good chance that no one's checking whether you're using someone's lost or stolen passport.

A gaping, if little-known, loophole in international aviation security came into broader view Sunday when the international police agency Interpol said its computer systems had contained information on the theft of two passports that were used to board an ill-fated Malaysia Airlines flight — but no national authorities had checked the database.

Largely unheeded, Interpol has long sounded the alarm that growing international travel has underpinned a new market for identity theft and bogus passports have lured many people: Illegal immigrants, terrorists, drug runners, pretty much anyone looking to travel unnoticed.

It's not known whether stolen passports had anything to do with Saturday's disappearance of the Boeing 777 bound from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, to Beijing with 239 people on board. But such oversights aren't new — and Interpol hopes national authorities will "learn from the tragedy." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel displays rockets allegedly seized in raid of Iranian ship

Red Sea. Israeli PM tries to put pressure on West to impose tougher nuclear sanctions on Iran

Israel's prime minister on Monday triumphantly toured a display of dozens of rockets that navy commandos intercepted in the Red Sea last week, alleged to be on their way from Iran to the Gaza Strip, and accused the international community of ignoring Iranian support for militant groups and falling victim to a charm offensive by the new leadership in Tehran.

Benjamin Netanyahu's visit to this Red Sea port capped a six-day PR blitz aimed at persuading world powers to toughen their position in nuclear talks. So far, the international reaction has been subdued, illustrating the uphill battle the Israeli leader faces in his efforts to change the minds of world leaders about Iran's outreach to the West.

He spoke to a backdrop of the captured ship and Israeli vessels involved in the operation. "Iran, a brutal regime, has not abandoned its deep involvement in terrorism, its systematic efforts to undermine peace and security throughout the Middle East and its ambition to destroy the state of Israel," Netanyahu said. "What is new is not Iran's deeds or its lies, but the desire of many in the international community to bury their heads in the sand."

The tough comments threatened to further strain Netanyahu's already tense relations with the European Union and the White House.

State Department spokeswoman Jen Psaki told reporters in Washington that the U.S. is concerned about Iran's support for militants but is still focused on resolving the nuclear issue.

Iran has denied any connection to the shipment and accused Netanyahu of staging the raid to derail Tehran's improving relations with the West. The ruling Hamas group in Gaza, and the smaller Islamic Jihad, which has ties with Iran, said they were not connected to the weapons. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu speaks as dozens of rockets are displayed after being seized from the Panama-flagged KLOS C civilian cargo ship that Israel intercepted last Wednesday off the coast of Sudan, at a military port in the Red Sea city of Eilat, southern Israel, Monday THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sexual assault case against U.S. general in jeopardy

Brig. Gen. Jeffrey A. Sinclair
JAMES ROBINSON/THE FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sexual assault case against an Army general was complicated Monday when the judge said the military may have improperly pressed ahead with a trial to send a message about its determination to curb rape and other widespread misconduct.

Judge Col. James Pohl refused to dismiss the charges against Brig. Gen. Jeffrey A. Sinclair but offered the defence another chance to plea-bargain the case down with a different set of military officials.

The twist comes with the Pentagon under heavy pressure from Congress and beyond to combat what the military says is an epidemic of rape and other sex crimes. On Monday, the Senate was expected to approve legislation cracking down on misconduct.

Pohl reviewed newly disclosed emails in Sinclair's case and said he found evidence of unlawful command influence in the Fort Bragg officials' decision to reject a plea deal before the trial began late last week

Under the military code of justice, the decision was supposed to be decided solely on the evidence, not its broader political implications.

The defence has until Tuesday morning to decide whether to submit a plea bargain proposal again or allow the court-martial to proceed.

Richard Scheff, the general's lead defence lawyer, would not say how he might proceed.

"This is an unprecedented situation. It's a mess created by the government. It wasn't created by us. We have so many options, we don't even know what they all are," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Details of the case

Sinclair is accused of twice forcing a female captain to perform oral sex on him in Afghanistan in 2011 during a three-year extramarital affair.

- He has admitted to the affair but denied assaulting the woman.
- Sinclair could get life in prison if convicted.

Sled dog race

Alaskan mushers lead the way in Iditarod Trail race

Two Alaska mushers arrived Monday morning at the second-to-last checkpoint of the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race: a four-time champion and a competitor seeking to become only the third woman to win the race.

Jeff King was leading Aliy Zirkle by less than an hour as they pulled in to White Mountain, about 128 kilometres from the finish in Nome. Teams must take an eight-hour layover at the checkpoint. The racers are expected to begin arriving in Nome no later than Tuesday.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aliy Zirkle at the White Mountain checkpoint Monday.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Bank

Israeli guards kill Jordanian judge at border crossing

Israeli guards shot a Jordanian man on Monday who Israelis said tried to grab a rifle from a soldier at the Allenby border crossing between the West Bank and Jordan.

A Jordanian judicial official, speaking on condition of anonymity, confirmed the man was a judge working in Amman since 2009. He was identified as magistrate Raed Zueter.

"The terrorist ran toward soldiers yelling 'Allahu Akbar' attempting to seize their weapons," the Israeli military said. "The soldiers felt an immediate threat to their lives and fired toward his lower extremities. The suspect then began to strangle a soldier and the force resorted to firing again."

Shootings at the Allenby crossing on the West Bank-Jordan border are rare. Israel and Jordan signed a peace agreement 20 years ago and have close security ties.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Péladeau. Media baron's political jump raises media-coverage concerns

The day after media tycoon Pierre Karl Péladeau's plunge into provincial politics, he's earning considerable praise in the pages of Quebec's most-read newspaper — one he happens to own.

Columns in the flagship paper of Péladeau's empire described the Parti Québécois candidate as a magnificent catch, a game-changer for Premier Pauline Marois and bad news for supporters of Canadian unity.

Pierre Karl Péladeau THE CANADIAN PRESS

Several opinion writers in Monday's Le Journal de Montréal also said Péladeau delivers instant credibility to the pro-independence PQ as it tries to beef up its economic chops.

Péladeau stunned the province Sunday by announcing he would run alongside Marois to help the PQ win a majority mandate in the April 7 election.

The media baron's new career is raising concerns about his media company's influence on political coverage in Quebec — even though Péladeau has resigned as vice-chairman of Quebecor Media Inc.

He's insisted his media outlets would maintain independent coverage.

Péladeau says he will retain his ownership stake in the company and place his investments in a blind trust.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Grocery store wars. Loblaws hooks a new responsibly-farmed salmon

Grocery giant Loblaws will be the first retailer in North America to sell a new type of responsibly-farmed salmon, an offering it hopes will differentiate itself amid intense competition from its grocery rivals.

Loblaws, which is also the country's largest biggest buyer and seller of seafood, said the decision to stock Atlantic salmon certified by the Aquaculture Stewardship Council (ASC) will give customers more choice when selecting responsibly farmed fish.

The ASC is an independent, not-for-profit organization based in the Netherlands that certifies responsible seafood farms, processors and distributors around the world that produce Atlantic salmon, Arctic char, shrimp, mussels and oysters.

Goal

2020

The B.C. Salmon Farmers Association says a number of Canadian farms have achieved sustainability certification through other agencies, with three fish farms aiming to achieve ASC standards by 2020.

Melanie Agopian, senior director of seafood sustainability with the supermarket chain, said only one Atlantic fish farm in Norway has been approved by the group, which introduced the standards late last year.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Market Minute

DOLLAR
90.08¢ (-0.09¢)

TSX
14,302.06 (+2.98)

OIL
$101.12 US (-$1.46)

GOLD
$1,341.50 (+$3.30)

Natural gas: $4.66 US (+$0.04)
Dow Jones: 16,418.68 (-34.04)

Peeling back profits

A new global top banana: Fyffes, Chiquita merge

Fruit supply companies Chiquita of the United States and Fyffes of Ireland said Monday they had agreed to merge to create the world's biggest banana supplier.

The all-shares agreement means the two companies will become ChiquitaFyffes PLC.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Come to where the controversy is — Come to vapers country

A patron exhales vapour from an e-cigarette at the Henley Vaporium in New York City. The proprietors are peddling e-cigarettes to so-called "vapers," a growing movement of enthusiasts that now includes celebrity fans and YouTube gurus, online forums and vapefests around the world. In just eight years or so, the number of vapers has grown from a few thousand to millions, in large part because of the still-controversial belief that e-cigarettes are safer than tobacco. FRANK FRANKLIN II/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Black Twitter gains followers online, IRL

Trending. The modern twist on the barbershop 'brings the fullness of black humanity into the social network'

Sentiment still relevant in 2014

"We wish to plead our own cause. Too long have others spoken for us."

Freedom's Journal, the first African American newspaper in the United States, declared its purpose on the front page of its first edition in 1827.

When a U.S. jury convicted Michael Dunn of attempted murder, but not actual murder, in the shooting death of a black teenager, the hashtag #dangerousblackkids popped up on Twitter. Users posted photos of black babies and toddlers, making fun of the fear that Dunn testified he felt before opening fire on a car full of teens at a convenience store.

That hashtag was the calling card of Black Twitter, a small corner of the social media giant where an unabashedly black spin on life gets served up in 140-character instalments.

Black Twitter shares opinions on everything from President Barack Obama to the latest reality TV show. But Black Twitter can also turn activist quickly.

"Black Twitter brings the fullness of black humanity into the social network, and that is why it has become so fascinating," said Kimberly C. Ellis, who has a doctorate in American and Africana studies, tweets as @drgoddess and is studying Black Twitter for her upcoming book, The Bombastic Brilliance of Black Twitter.

According to a Pew Research Center report, while similar numbers of blacks and whites use the Internet — 80 per cent and 87 per cent, respectively — 22 per cent of those blacks who were online used Twitter in 2013, compared with 16 per cent of online whites.

Meredith Clark, a doctoral candidate at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill who is writing her dissertation on Black Twitter, likened it to Freedom's Journal, the first African American newspaper in the United States. On that publication's first front page in 1827, it declared: "We wish to plead our own cause. Too long have others spoken for us."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

· Save $$$! Resolve your debts
· One easy monthly payment.
· All outstanding loans, bills, credit cards
· Quick! Borrow what you need.
· Personal loans, Business debt consolidation.
· Home improvements loan and others

Call: Signature Financial 1 866 284 9779
signaturemgt@financier.com

INCOME TAX PREPARATION
$15 DISCOUNT +
$15 BONUS CHEQUE
PRECISE • ACCURATE • GUARANTEED
Refer a Friend this tax season as a New Client to Liberty Tax Service and they will receive a $15 Discount on our services and YOU will receive a $15 Bonus Cheque as a Thank You for the Referral!
Additional Details and Referral Vouchers available at all 4 of our locations below.
Offer Valid until March 15, 2014
Fast • Friendly • Accurate
Liberty Tax Service®
Lawson Heights Mall 306.668.2353
Confederation Mall 306.668.2355
Market Mall 306.668.2354
The Centre Mall 306.668.2360

THERE SHOULDN'T BE AN APP FOR THAT

SHE SAYS

Jessica Napier
metronews.ca

Are you a terrible boyfriend? Well guess what, now there's an app for that.

The newly released BroApp promises to deliver an automated message to your girlfriend once a day so you can spend more time with your "bros." That's right, digitally savvy dudes, you can now outsource your relationship to your cellphone for the bargain price of just $1.99.

Users have the option to craft their own customized sweet-nothings or select from a pre-programmed list of grammatically incorrect and cringe-worthy greetings such as "Hi darl, how did you go today?" and "Hey babe, what's doing with you today?"

I'm sorry, but are we to assume that the modern man is so incredibly inept at multitasking that he can't remember to take 10 seconds out of his bro-filled day of fist-bumping and beer-chugging to show some affection towards the person he is romantically interested in? Seriously?

Presumably a "girlfriend" is someone with whom you'd like to cultivate a meaningful emotional and physical relationship. If this is a woman you'd like to share your life with, go to dinner with and have sex with, shouldn't you at least have the decency to communicate with her directly rather than relying on some sort of digital proxy to do it for you?

Furthermore, do the tech wizards over at BroApp presume the girlfriends of the world are so insecure that they just can't bear to go more than 24 hours without hearing from their man?

Spoiler alert, guys: Women aren't just sitting around brushing our hair and waiting for you to finish hanging out with your buddies so you can lavish us with attention. We actually have a lot of stuff going on: jobs to do, people to see, Pilates classes to attend and Netflix shows to binge-watch. Sure it'd be nice to receive a sweet text message from you during the day, but we're not desperately clutching our phones and waiting with bated breath for you to grace us with a lacklustre "Sup?"

There's no faking sincere dialogue and there's a good chance your girlfriend is going to be able to tell the difference between a hand-crafted message from her human boyfriend and BroApp's impersonal scripted greetings.

Checking in with your significant other isn't an annoying chore to contract out to a computerized mobile wingman. So if you're actually considering taking the time to download this app and hand-pick your preferred lazy-boyfriend messages, then for goodness' sake just pick up the phone and have an actual conversation.

Or better yet, use that $1.99 to take your lady friend out for a cup of coffee and engage in some old-fashioned face-to-face communication.

Follow Jessica Napier on Twitter @MetroSheSays

ZOOM

Anyone want to retweet this?

ZSL LONDON ZOO/REX

Lemur gets into selfie craze

It certainly seems that 2014 is set to be the year of the selfie, as this lemur poses for a cheeky picture at the London zoo. Bekily, a 12-year-old, ring-tailed lemur, was clearly out to take the Twitter crown for most retweets from Ellen DeGeneres, who posted the star-studded Oscars selfie. METRO

'He grabbed the camera lens'

"We're always taking quick pics of the animals we look after — as with workmates this is cute — but Bekily definitely wanted to get in on the action himself this time," says keeper Tegan McPhail. He adds: "As I was snapping away, he grabbed the camera lens and pulled it towards his own face." METRO

Other selfie moments

- Barack Obama. The U.S. president caused controversy following his selfie with British PM David Cameron and Danish PM Helle Thorning-Schmidt at the Nelson Mandela memorial service.
- Kim Kardashian. The star showed she was back to her booty-shaking best after giving birth to North West in June.
- David Cameron. The prime minister was mocked for his "serious selfie" that pictured him on the phone to Barack Obama.

Clickbait

IRENE KUAN
Metro Online

Love doing your nails but hate painting on a colour only to regret it? On top of wasting time, it can also be a pricey habit, with professional manicures running upwards of $30. Here are some free apps for beauty buffs to have a virtual manicure before shelling out the big bucks at a salon.

ISTOCKIMAGES

Nail Maker: Virtual Manicure:

This app is like a real nail salon, where you can clip, buff, polish and decorate your nails virtually. You start with choosing your skin tone, and then start playing with different colours, gems and art pens. Once you're done, clean up with polish remover and start again.

Virtual Nail Salon by ModiFace:

Try on real-life nail polish colours, patterns and rings with this app. You can even create a customized nail polish pattern by uploading a photo.

Twitter

@metropicks asked: .@strombo will host @hockeynight next season. What is your first reaction? #HNIC #HNICstrombo

@AllanSorensen: don't care what broadcaster absorbs @strombo, so long as it puts an end to one of the most shameful episodes in CBC history

@KeightyEm: Just when you weren't sure it was possible... hockey got sexier.

@Smugshot: would have preferred Rick the temp

@policyfrog: I like Strombo just fine, but I'm still going to wince the first time he ironically wears a powder blue sport coat on air.

@Mel_Brown: I'm thrilled if it means Don Cherry is gone! :)

@Glenn_A_Johnson: As a former journo and broadcaster, I admire his invu skills. He will bring a touch of hip.

@MyNewsStop: Its great! Strombs is pure Canadian & a sincere personality. He is a great fit #HNICstrombo @laneyj19: Ppl should start learning how to spell and pronouce his name now!

Follow @metropicks

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU:
Send us your comments: saskatoonletters@metronews.ca

metro

President Bill McDonald • Vice-President & Group Publisher, Metro Western Canada Steve Shrout • Editor-in-Chief Charlotte Empey • Deputy Editor Fernando Carneiro • National Deputy Editor, Digital Quin Parker • Managing Editor, Saskatoon Tara Campbell • Managing Editor, News & Business Amber Shortt • Managing Editor, Life & Entertainment Dean Lisk • Sales Manager Barry Paton • Vice-President, Sales and Business Development Tracy Day • Vice-President, Creative and Marketing Services Jeff Smith • Vice-President, Finance Phil Jameson METRO SASKATOON • #100, 728 Spadina Crescent East Saskatoon, Sask. S7K 4H7 • Telephone: 306-649-2025 • Toll free: 1-877-895-7193 • Fax: 1-888-895-6931 • Advertising: adinfosaskatoon@metronews.ca • Distribution: saskatoon_distribution@metronews.ca • News tips: saskatoon@metronews.ca • Letters to the Editor: saskatoonletters@metronews.ca

DVD review

Inside Llewyn Davis

Directors. Joel Coen, Ethan Coen

Stars. Oscar Isaac, Carey Mulligan, John Goodman

The Coen Bros.' uncanny evocation of the 1961 New York City folk music scene, starring Oscar Isaac as a striving troubadour, makes for a wistful, wryly humorous and unforgettable film. The whims of fate and vagaries of artistic success have never been so clearly defined, or so musically.

Isaac is the title folkie, loosely based on the late Dave Van Ronk, who doesn't know a hurricane named Bob Dylan is about to shake up not only his narcissistic existence but also the entire music scene.

Actor/singer Isaac gets fine support from Carey Mulligan as a woman wronged, John Goodman and F. Murray Abraham as splashes of cold water to half-lidded eyes, and a persistent tabby that is one cool cat.

It was my pick for the best film of 2013. And there's a great soundtrack, produced by T Bone Burnett. Extras include a making-of featurette and the feature-length concert film Another Day, Another Time: Celebrating the Music of Inside Llewyn Davis. PETER HOWELL

YA has got it Half Bad and that's good for new author

Working its magic.
Debut novel that bucks futuristic dystopian trend casts potent spell

EMILY LAURENCE
Metro World News

Before its release last week, Sally Green's book Half Bad had already been sold in 45 countries, turned into a trilogy and optioned for a movie being produced by Karen Rosenfelt, who was responsible for Twilight, The Book Thief and Percy Jackson: Sea of Monsters. Oh, and it's her first book.

If you're already completely over The Hunger Games and need something to hold you over until Divergent hits theatres, this is it.

Half Bad is about a 16-year-old boy named Nathan who lives in a cage and is being trained to kill. Living among humans are witches — some purely good and some horrendously evil — with Nathan's father being the worst of the worst. To survive, Nathan needs to escape his keepers, find his father and receive three gifts that will bring him his own magical powers.

Bucking the trend of YA novels set in a futuristic dystopian time, Half Bad is set in modern-day England. "The book is (dystopian) in a way, but to be honest I never really believed it was going to be published, so my idea was just to write the book I would want to read if I was 15 or 16," Green tells us. "It wasn't in my mind about what the market needed or didn't need."

Interestingly, when Green began writing she had a very different novel in mind: "Initially, it was a completely different story about a girl who didn't know she was a witch." She did, however, always plan on writing a trilogy. "My original idea was for the White Witches to be assumed good and Black Witches assumed to be bad.

"Originally, I had Nathan living in a White Witch world in book one and you would think the White Witches were going to be good. When you move to book two, the Black Witch world, you see the witches in an entirely new way. And then the third book would tie it all together. But actually, it didn't work out like that," Green reveals.

As far as the movie goes, Green guesses the cast will be mostly unknown actors, although she has two dream people in mind: "To play Marcus, I would love George Clooney, but it would be the mean George Clooney, like in From Dusk Till Dawn. And Gabriel, the Black Witch that appears in the end of the book, is definitely Aidan Turner, who was in the latest Hobbit movies. He's gorgeous," she says.

Green is at work on the second book, which she says is much more daunting than writing the first. "I didn't even know the first one was going to be published. I was writing it mainly for myself," she says. "Now I have a deadline and an audience that I have to keep happy. The blank page in the beginning (for the second book) was a bit nerve-wracking. I was in a bit of a panic to get the first words down," she says. "After the first 10,000 words, then I relaxed into it."

Debut YA author Sally Green. CONTRIBUTED

Set in modern-day England

"I never really believed it was going to be published, so my idea was just to write the book I would want to read if I was 15 or 16."
Sally Green, author of Half Bad

Loose-lipped Harmon lays it all on the line

Harmontown. Community creator felt some serious dread unveiling his candid new doc at South by Southwest

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Austin

Spencer Crittenden, Jeff Bryan Davis, Dan Harmon and Erin McGathy in Harmontown. CONTRIBUTED

After Community creator Dan Harmon was forced off his sitcom, he hit the road, taking his podcast on a 20-city tour with documentary filmmaker Neil Berkeley in tow. Now that trip is the warts-and-all documentary Harmontown, which premiered at SXSW this weekend. Harmon, who is now back running Community, sat down with Metro for an appropriately candid chat.

So you saw the film with an audience last night. Now that it's the morning after, what's your take on that experience?
I'm absolutely relieved. I don't do a lot of things in my life where there's delayed gratification or delayed effect, and this is one of the very few things in 41 years that I've spent a year or more anticipating — sometimes with a lot of dread, sometimes just with impatience, but all the time just living in a world where I'm out of control of something. It's a relief to move from a world where nobody has seen this movie to a world where people have seen it, because now that's over. I think it's a very interesting movie because I'm a narcissist. Even if other people don't like it or do like it, the great thing is that it's not looming any more and I don't have to worry about that part.

Community

"The way that my brain is shaped, it's best for there to be a valve on it that runs to my mouth."
Dan Harmon

As the tour was happening I was curious, did you ever get any pressure to be less candid? Like, "Maybe don't tell everyone about all of that."
There's always those voices. Usually they are people that are paid to help me. Believe it or not, I have a publicist — imagine how insane that job is. I've always been very regretful about the fact that the people who rely on me and care about me can actually be let down or victimized or frightened by my motormouth, but at the same time, there's a worse version of me, and that's a version of me that bothers to be strategic, and political and diplomatic. In the best case scenario, that's a useless version of me. In the worst case scenario that's a more effective version of me who gets terrible things done. The way that my brain is shaped, it's best for there to be a valve on it that runs to my mouth, because it keeps me humble in the long run and there's people who like it. I think that the people whose job it is to call me and say "Hey, can you cool it," they've learned by now that the answer is no, I can't.

Now that you've debuted Harmontown at SXSW, what is the plan for the film?
I'm not even sure. I mean, I know that if nothing else, there's a fan base that would love to just be able to download it and just watch it. So if we can just make it available to them for a small fee it will very quickly recoup the investment I represented. As long as it pays for itself, I won't be embarrassed about it. It'll be something we did that was worthwhile

*Available to Rogers wireless postpaid customers with eligible premium smartphone activating/upgrading on 2-yr. Talk, Text and Internet plan having min. $60 monthly service fee. Must enroll within 30 days of activation/upgrade. Program fees ($24.99/mo or $29.99/mo with Device P based on 2-yr. pricing) with new 2-yr. plan in highest tier category. See rogers.com/next for full terms and conditions. ©2014 Rogers Communications.

Johnny Weir and Tara Lipinski. ALL PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

Is the Golf Channel ready for Johnny and Tara?

With their sassy, on-point figure skating commentary, drool-worthy couture and adorable Instagram posts (they love to spoon!), Johnny Weir and Tara Lipinski took the Olympics by storm — again.

"I think we were both happily surprised (by the attention)," Lipinski told Metro at a kickoff for the Paralympic Winter Games in New York City. "We were the rookies and we had to prove ourselves, so it was really nice to come home and see the reception that we got."

The pros were "in a bubble" during their time in Sochi, Weir says, so they didn't really know about the positive reaction to their work until they returned home.

"We didn't think anyone was watching, and there's a brilliance to being a bit naive to what's going on," he says. "It's very liberating."

And figure skating's most fabulous duo have no plans to slow down now. The two did Oscars coverage for NBC and hope to be commentators at the Winter Olympics four years from now ("We'll have to see," Lipinski says). They're also ready and willing to offer their insight on other matters.

"We have an opinion about everything," Weir says. "Despite being figure skaters and knowing what we're talking about specifically, we've got opinions on a lot. So show us VMAs. Show us Golf Channel. Show us the Kentucky Derby (or) Toddlers and Tiaras."

METRO DISH

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Moss reveals her marriage to Portlandia star Fred Armisen was 'traumatic'

PAT HEALY
Metro World News in Boston

Mad Men star Elisabeth Moss, 31, really, really, really (and we mean "really") wasn't a fan of her eight-month marriage to Portlandia star Fred Armisen, 47.

"Looking back, I feel like I was really young, and at the time I didn't think that I was that young," Moss said of her relationship with Armisen in her new cover story with New York Magazine. The two divorced each other in 2010. "It was extremely traumatic and awful and horrible," she noted. Add that to the time she said this about Armisen last year — "One of the greatest things I heard someone say about him is, 'He's so great at doing impersonations. But the greatest impersonation he does is that of a normal person'" — and, well, we don't have to ask her what she really thinks about the whole affair. At least we hope the wedding presents were cool?

Twitter

@ElizabethHurley
Full of the joys of Spring. Chickens, parrot, dogs and alpacas fed. Lap top open and espresso on the way.

@ActuallyNPH
Took the kids to their first Broadway show today: the Lion King. Mine was 25 years ago: Les Miserables. It's the circle of life...

@lenadunham
I just made and deleted a not so great molestation joke. Sorry guys. I am really sleepy.

Mendes is on a mission to prove she's mama material

Eva Mendes is reportedly working hard to convince boyfriend Ryan Gosling that it's time to start a family, according to Radar Online. "Eva is spending a lot of time with January and her two-year-old son, Xander," a source says of Mad Men star January Jones. "She's going overboard with her supportive relationship with January, who has her hands full as a young mother at the moment. Eva seems obsessed with proving to Ryan that she's ready to start a family."

Eva Mendes

AND WHATEVER COMES AFTER THAT

Samsung Galaxy S5™ Coming Soon!

NOW GET A NEW PHONE EVERY YEAR
WITH ROGERS NEXT™

GET YOUR NEXT PHONE FOR $0* on select 2-yr. plans

Sign up for $24.99/month. After 12 months, trade in your current device with no balance to pay off, and get a hot new phone for $0

S FREEDOM ADVANTAGE
UPGRADE PROGRAM | DATA SHARING
MATCH | FREE PLAN CHANGES WITHIN TIER

LIVE LIKE NEVER BEFORE™

ROGERS™

rotection Premium) non-refundable (even if you terminate prior to upgrade). After enrollment for 12 consecutive months, participants who trade in current device in good working condition and maintain program enrollment may upgrade to new premium device for $0 (up to $250 max.

LIFE 3

For your phone

UP Coffee (iPhone, free)

MIND THE APP
Kris Abel
@RealKrisAbel life@metronews.ca

Avoiding caffeine in the evening can lead to a better sleep at night.

This informative tracker covers all caffeine-related foods to help you work out an ideal cut-off time.

Half-off

Elisha has been feeling a little bored with her exercise program, but is that going to keep her from moving more? Visit metronews.ca/voices/half-off to find out.

The secret life of cheap and nutritious meals

The biggest backlash Christy Brissette, registered dietitian with Dietitians of Canada, hears is that it is too expensive to eat healthy. She set off on a treasure hunt through the grocery store to prove that a family of four can eat three full, healthy meals for under $40. For more ideas, visit cookspiration.com

THERESA ALBERT myfriendinfood.com

Breakfast: Oats

• Oats are high in soluble fibre, which helps to lower bad cholesterol, keeping your blood sugar more stable.

• Best Breakfast: Power Oats. Cook 1/2 cup oats with 1 cup of milk or alternative, add grated apple, 2 tablespoons of peanut butter and 2 tablespoons of raisins.

Lunch: Frozen cauliflower

• This year's hottest vegetable, cauliflower, may help reduce cancer risk,

• Cleaned, chopped and flash frozen, it is as simple as it is nourishing.

• Quick lunch tip: Greek Pasta Salad with Chicken and Cauliflower. Boil whole wheat pasta and add a handful of cauliflower for the final 2 minutes. Then drain and stir in shredded, roasted rotisserie chicken breast.

Dinner: Dry bean mix

• Beans are high in fibre and a good source of vegetarian protein. They contain magnesium, which can help lower blood pressure.

• Dashing Dinner: Slow cooker chili. Sauté onion in slow cooker on high. Add pre-cooked dried beans, canned tomatoes, frozen corn, green pepper, mushrooms and chili powder; cook on low for 8 hours. Hollow out rolls and use as bread bowls. Grate cheese and sprinkle.

Feed 4 for about $40

Here is a way to feed your family for $42.06.

Breakfast: Power Oats $5.07
- Rolled oats (7 cents/serving) = 28 cents
- Apples (37 cents/serving) = $1.47
- Milk or milk alternative (50 cents/serving) = $2
- Peanut butter (20 cents/serving) = 80 cents
- Raisins (13 cents/serving) = 52 cents

Lunch: Greek Pasta Salad $21.23 (with chicken)
- Whole wheat or brown rice rotini (30 cents/serving) = $1.20
- Chicken breast ($2.80/serving) = $11.20
- Grape tomatoes (61 cents/serving) = $2.47
- Frozen cauliflower (22 cents/serving) = 88 cents
- Feta cheese ($1.37/serving) = $5.48

Dinner. Bean Chili $15.76
- Dry mixed beans (19 cents/serving) = 76 cents
- Canned tomatoes (32 cents/serving) = $1.28
- Frozen corn (22 cents/serving) = 88 cents
- Onion (15 cents/serving) = 60 cents
- Green bell pepper (80 cents/serving) = $3.20
- Mushrooms (50 cents/serving) = $2
- Whole grain roll (57 cents/serving) =$2.28
- Cheddar cheese (74 cents/serving) = $2.96

Probiotics to the mental rescue — really

BEST HEALTH MINUTE
Bonnie Munday
Editor-in-chief
Best Health Magazine

Probiotics — they truly can help you be happy, healthy and slim. In the March-April issue of Best Health magazine, Melissa Greer writes about some of the incredible benefits of probiotics, "the friendly bacteria."

They are widely known to maintain a healthy digestive system. They also boost immunity and many health-care practitioners recommend you have them daily.

Now, researchers think some probiotics can also improve mental health—and they have even come up with a new term for them: Psychobiotics.

That's because they could produce a health benefit in patients suffering from psychiatric illness, specifically depression or other stress-related disorders.

According to Alan C. Logan, a Connecticut-based naturopathic doctor and co-author of Your Brain on Nature, probiotics help to balance gut microbiota — the bacteria inside our stomach.

"These bacteria do a lot but, most importantly, they protect the gut lining," he says.

An imbalance of gut microbiota (due to psychological stress or a high-fat, high-sugar diet, for example) can lead to intestinal permeability.

Why is that a bad thing? Because it means parts of the bacteria could pass through the gut lining and into your bloodstream, leading to low-grade inflammation. And that has been connected with obesity, disease — and mental health problems.

The beneficial probiotic strains, and those that are typically found in foods, are members of the lactobacillus and bifidobacterium families, says Logan.

A 2011 study monitored adults who were given either a probiotic product that included lactobacillus and bifidobacteria, or a placebo, every day at breakfast for 30 days. Those who consumed probiotics were found to have lowered stress and anxiety.

It may be unrealistic to expect that probiotics will replace medications in the treatment of depression. But the message for now is that probiotics not only help you avoid obesity and disease–in Logan's opinion, "although more research is needed, probiotics taken in conjunction with a healthy diet and exercise may benefit mental health."

BEST HEALTH IS ON NEWSSTANDS, OR YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE AT BESTHEALTHMAG.CA. WE ALSO HAVE AN AWARD-WINNING IPAD EDITION.

THE HEART OF THE MATTER

YOUR CHOLESTEROL: BY THE NUMBERS

MINERVA STUDIO/SHUTTERSTOCK

What's your cholesterol IQ?

You should know your cholesterol level if you're a man older than 40, a post-menopausal woman, you are overweight, smoke, have diabetes, or if heart disease runs in your family.

Cholesterol, a type of fat made in the liver, is also present in some of the foods you eat. Your body uses cholesterol to build cells, aid in digestion, and produce hormones. But too much of the bad cholesterol LDL (low density lipoprotein) can build up in artery walls over time, forming a plaque. This plaque buildup can block the flow of oxygen-rich blood to your heart and brain, raising risks for a heart attack or stroke.

Canadian doctors like to get LDL cholesterol levels down to 2 millimoles per litre (mmol/L), but a worrisome number of Canadians don't meet that target. In fact, according to Statistics Canada, about 40 per cent of Canadians aged 40 to 59 have high LDL levels.

Middle-aged men should be regularly screened as should older women. According to Canadian practice guidelines, anyone with an LDL of 5 mmol/L or greater, as well as those who have already had a heart attack or stroke, or diabetics 40 years old and older, are typically prescribed a cholesterol lowering drug called a statin.

If you aren't in one of these high-risk categories, and your levels aren't checked, you may not even know you have high cholesterol because there are few symptoms.

The good news is that along with elevated blood pressure, cholesterol is a modifiable risk factor for heart disease, so you can take steps to control your levels. A common strategy is to follow a low-fat diet; you might also consider adding a daily dose of Metamucil — in powder or capsule form — which has been proven to lower mildly to moderately elevated cholesterol levels when accompanied by a low-fat diet.

Other tips include avoiding foods high in saturated and trans fats, choosing foods such as nuts, seeds and beans containing plant sterols that help control blood cholesterol, taking up physical activities, and being smoke-free.

HOW TO TAME YOUR TUMMY TROUBLE

Do you have a gassy gut? A tender tummy? Or a bloated belly?

If so, you aren't alone. About 80 per cent of the population sometimes gets bloated, suffers from excess gas or wind, or has altered bowel habits, according to Dr. Richard Hunt, professor, emeritus, McMaster University, Hamilton, and founder and vice-president, Canadian Digestive Health Foundation.

The symptoms could be a sign of a potentially serious disorder such as irritable bowel syndrome (IBS), but, more likely, it's your gut telling you to change your diet.

Here are some easy-to-follow tips to ease the discomfort.

- Drink lots of water, while cutting down on alcoholic, caffeinated and sugar-rich beverages.
- Watch your fat intake. Stick to fish or low-fat meats like chicken or turkey or lean cuts of beef. Avoid fried foods and those containing trans fats
- Boost your fibre intake. You can get plenty from the No. 1 doctor recommended fibre brand Metamucil (Source: Health Care Analytics, 2012); it promotes digestive health by relieving irregularity.
- Choose the right carbs. Choose easily digestible carbohydrates such as potatoes, rice and bananas, and limit more difficult-to-digest carbs like beans, broccoli and cabbage.
- Experiment with probiotics. In the natural health product Align, probiotics provide live bacteria that form part of the natural healthy intestinal flora. This can help to relieve symptoms of IBS such as abdominal discomfort, gas and bloating. Align has 10 years of research behind it and is the No. 1 gastroenterologist recommended probiotic in the U.S., among gastroenterologists who recommended a brand of probiotic in a Symphony Health Solutions 2013 survey.
- Eat smaller, more frequent meals. Also avoid large meals, especially right before bed
- Limit sodium, sugar and artificial sweeteners. Your tummy — and your heart — will thank you.

There are other lifestyle habits you could adopt, including being active, achieving a healthy body weight, being smoke-free, and controlling stressors in your life.

These products may not be right for you. Always read and follow the label.

DOUBLE WHAMMY

For a healthy heart and a stable stomach, try these top four strategies.

- Eat well. Aim for a low-fat diet with lots of easily digestible fruits and vegetables plus whole grains.
- Consume more fibre. Fibre, especially the soluble type, can help lower cholesterol levels. Adults older than 18 years old should aim to get at least 21-38 grams of total dietary fibre every day. For a quick fibre boost, dissolve a dose of your favourite flavour of Metamucil into your morning juice or smoothie.
- Get active. For adults 18-64 years old, experts recommend at least 150 minutes of moderate to vigorous aerobic exercise every week, in bouts of 10 minutes or more.
- Stop smoking. Smoking increases LDL blood cholesterol and the habit is unhealthy to just about every other part of the body.

The future of butting out is now

Experts are calling for a cigarette-free America. ISTOCK

Health officials have begun to predict the end of cigarette smoking in America.

They have long wished for a cigarette-free America, but shied away from calling for smoking rates to fall to zero or near zero by any particular year. The power of tobacco companies and popularity of their products made such a goal seem like a pipe dream.

But a confluence of changes has recently prompted public health leaders to start throwing around phrases like "endgame" and "tobacco-free generation." Now, they talk about the slowly-declining adult smoking rate dropping to 10 per cent in the next decade and to 5 per cent or lower by 2050.

Acting U.S. surgeon general Boris Lushniak recently released a 980-page report on smoking that pushed for stepped up tobacco-control measures. "I can't accept that we're just allowing these numbers to trickle down," he said, in a recent interview with the AP. "We believe we have the public health tools to get us to the zero level."

Changes

Among the things that have changed:

- Court. Tobacco companies, once considered impervious to legal attack, have suffered some huge defeats in court. Perhaps the biggest was the 1998 settlement of a case brought by more than 40 states demanding compensation for the costs of treating smoking-related illnesses. Big Tobacco agree agreed to pay about $200 billion and curtail marketing of cigarettes to youths.
- Bans. Laws banning smoking in restaurants, bars and workplaces have popped up all over the country. Airline flights have long been off-limits for smoking.

This is not the first time a federal health official has spoken so boldly. In 1984, Surgeon General C. Everett Koop called for a "smoke-free society" by the year 2000. However, Koop didn't offer specifics on how to achieve such a goal.

"What's different today is that we have policies and programs that have been proven to drive down tobacco use," said Matthew Myers, president of the Campaign for Tobacco Free Kids. "We couldn't say that in 1984."

These developments have made many in public health dream bigger. It's caused Myers' organization and others to tout the goal of bringing the adult smoking rate down to 10 per cent by 2024, from the current 18 per cent. That would mean dropping it at twice the speed it declined over the last 10 years.

The bigger goal is to reduce U.S. smoking-related deaths to fewer than 10,000, from the current level of 480,000. But even if smoking rates dropped to zero immediately, it would take decades to see that benefit, since smoking-triggered cancers can take time to develop.

But while some experts and advocates are swinging for the fences, others are more pessimistic. They say the key to reaching such goals is not simply more taxes and more local smoking bans, but action by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to regulate smoking.

A 2009 federal law gave the FDA the authority to regulate tobacco products. The law barred FDA from outright blocking the sale of cigarettes, but the agency was free to take such pivotal steps as prohibiting the use of appealing menthol flavouring in cigarettes and requiring cigarette makers to ratchet down the amount of addictive nicotine in each smoke.

But nearly five years after gaining power over cigarettes, FDA has yet to even propose such regulations. Agency officials say they're working on it.

Many believe FDA's delay is driven by defence preparations for an anticipated battery of legal and political challenges.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MICHAEL JUNG/SHUTTERSTOCK

TAP INTO YOUR PERSONAL NETWORK

GET A JUMP ON THE SUMMER JOB HUNT

While it's hard to think of summer jobs when it's still cold and snowing outside, students should be hard at work taking the steps to land employment.

The first part of the job hunt will be to determine what kind of position for which you are looking. If you aren't sure, it's a good idea to talk with a counsellor at your school's career centre — they can help you determine what types of positions are a good fit given your skills and education.

Once you have something in mind, it's time to go and see what's available. It's natural to focus on job search websites, but you should expand your search.

"You shouldn't ever limit yourself in terms of where you go to search," says Chris Glover, the interim associate director of the Career and Leadership Development Centre at Dalhousie University in Halifax.

A school's career centre will have job postings, but it's also crucial to tap into your personal network.

"Most (job) opportunities are found through networking," says Dianne Twombly, the manager of career development at York University's Career Centre.

Talk to your friends, family and professors about what you are looking for and how they can help with the job search.

"You just never know who people know," Twombly says.

When applying for a job, custom tailor both the cover letter and resumé to the job and ensure they speak to the skills for which the position is looking.

Remember, the effort you put into the job search will dictate the results you get.

"What you put into that job search is kind of what you are going to get out of it," says Anna Weir, the co-ordinator of career services at the University of Winnipeg.

EDWARDS OFFERS MBA FLEXIBILITY

Getting a MBA can be more convenient than you thought.

The Edwards MBA at the Edwards School of Business has been designed with the needs of the student in mind.

"Flexibility is important in order to allow students to continue working while completing their studies," says Carolyn Blushke, program and marketing co-ordinator, Edwards MBA, Edwards School of Business.

A unique aspect of the Edwards MBA program is the focused learning and integration of business concepts.

Each course is offered consecutively in a modular format and scheduled in three-week durations, creating an intensive learning environment that immerses students in the subject area while allowing flexibility in scheduling.

The Edwards MBA can be completed in only 12 months if taken full time, or part time in up to 36 months.

CONTRIBUTED

Students develop an approach to management that is both integrative and strategic, gaining a deeper understanding of organizations and their local and global context.

"By enhancing their interpersonal communication, team building and leadership skills, graduates pursue professional opportunities with confidence, integrity and accountability," Blushke says.

Application deadlines for the 2014-15 academic year starting September, are March 31 for international students, and May 31 for domestic students.

For more information about the Edwards MBA and admissions requirements, visit edwardsmba.ca.

LEARN PROPER, PRACTICAL SKILLS AT COLLÈGE MATHIEU

Collège Mathieu is the only educational institution that provides programs at the college level in French in Saskatchewan.

Collège Mathieu helps prepare students for their professional career by enrolling in programs that respond to the labour market gap.

"All lectures are distance learning, except internships, and are aimed at equipping students with proper practical skills," says Josiane Barebereho, principal communication officer, Collège Mathieu. "This is an advantage for interested people who are employed, as they can study while continuing their daily business."

Collège Mathieu offers five credited programs in early childhood education, specialized educational assistant, resident care attendant, events management, and supervision.

"So far, the placement rate on the labour market for our graduates is very close to 100 per cent," Barebereho says.

The college also offers continuing education that deals with language classes (French, Spanish), essential skills, food safety, first aid, computer classes, and many more.

CONTRIBUTED

"We also organize trainings and workshops on specific subjects on a need basis," Barebereho says.

Collège Mathieu serves the entire province, with the main offices in Gravelbourg, and offices in Saskatoon, Regina and Ponteix.

In 2018, the institution will mark 100 years of existence.

For more information about Collège Mathieu, visit collegemathieu.sk.ca.

North West Regional College
BRINGING FUTURES into FOCUS
Upcoming Programming for 2014 - 15

Battlefords Campus	Meadow Lake Campus
Business	Early Childhood Education -Level 1
Computer Networking Tech	Educational Assistant
Continuing Care Assistant	Electrician
Court Services Administrator	Heavy Equipment & Truck & Transport Tech
Electrician	Industrial Mechanic
Early Childhood Education	Institutional Cooking
Hair Stylist	Office Education
Office Education	Plumbing & Pipefitting
Plumbing & Pipefitting	Short Order Cooking
Practical Nursing	Welding
Victim Services Coordination
Welding
Youth Care Worker

Bachelors of Education starting September 2014 will be delivered in Meadow Lake. Currently accepting applications!
Masters of Education in Curriculum and Instruction starting July 2014. A 10-course part-time program with classes alternating between Meadow Lake campus and Battlefords campus.
For information on our General Interest, University or Safety Ticket programs, please visit our website at www.nwrc.sk.ca.

University of Saskatchewan
Discover More
with St. Thomas More College
Over 200 Arts & Science class options open to all U of S students!
"I appreciate STM's community atmosphere and the smaller class sizes that provide students with an engaging learning environment."
Gabriela, STMSU President
Open January 2014 - New 20,000 sq. ft. addition with over 350 new student spaces incorporating advanced classroom technology.
ST. THOMAS MORE COLLEGE
UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN
discovermore.ca

FIND UNIQUE ALTERNATIVE AT ST. THOMAS MORE

For more than 75 years, St. Thomas More (STM) College has been offering University of Saskatchewan students a unique alternative when selecting courses in arts and sciences and engaging in the college experience.

"By providing an intimate scholarly setting within the University of Saskatchewan, students are given access to the best of both worlds — exposure to the dynamic intellectual stimulation of a large, thriving research intensive university while being a member of a much smaller academic community that is equally stimulating in terms of promoting intellectual, personal and, if the student wishes, spiritual development," says STM president Terry Downey.

CONTRIBUTED

"As a liberal arts college, we are the only federated college at the university, offering over 200 U of S credit classes," Downey says.

The college has its own faculty, offering a wide range of courses in humanities and social sciences, along with program majors and minors not found elsewhere on campus.

STM prides itself on small class sizes, high quality of student-faculty engagement, and an exceptional commitment to student services. Any student on campus may enrol in an STM class since all courses are available through the U of S PAWS registration listings. If students elect to self-declare as STM students they are eligible for additional college benefits, including an impressive range of scholarships and bursaries, as well as ready access to professors and student support staff.

St. Thomas More College has its own student services department, campus ministry team and student union, an outstanding cafeteria (Choices), renowned student club (Newman Centre), theatre club (Newman Players) and glee club (Newman Sounds). STM also houses its own library, auditorium, galleries and a chapel celebrating both Roman Catholic and Byzantine liturgies.

For more, visit stmcollege.ca.

PREPARE FOR IN-DEMAND CAREERS AT NORTH WEST

Through its contact with business and industry, North West Regional College (NWRC) ensures its students are prepared for occupations in demand.

The college offers a selection of certificate and diploma programs in business, health care, community services and trades.

Students can choose from a variety of career options geared to fill needs of employers, both locally and provincially.

University students are able to take their first two years of classes for most degree programs at the main campuses in Meadow Lake and North Battleford.

Bachelor of education and master of education programs are also available.

Academic upgrading and community interest programs provide the training needed for those seeking to upgrade their skills.

NWRC provides an environment where students can feel comfortable and get support, should they need it.

Academic advising, career counselling, tutorials, workshops, and scholarships highlight the college's focus on student success.

Practical work experiences and job coaching enhances student success in the workplace and improves connectivity to the workforce.

CONTRIBUTED

For more about the programs offered at North West Regional College, call the North Battleford campus at 306-937-5100, or Meadow Lake campus at 306-234-5100, or visit nwrc.sk.ca.

Upgrade your undergrad while you work.

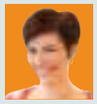
Get a better career without giving up the things that matter most. With evening and weekend classes, we make it easier to strike a comfortable balance between education, work and home life.

edwardsMBA.ca

EDWARDS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN MBA

Health Solutions

Evaporated Milk? You bet!



NUTRI-BITES
Theresa Albert
DHN, RNCP
myfriendinfood.com

OK, maybe I am a survivalist preparing for the zombie apocalypse. So what if I still have my Y2K water stored in the basement? You have to have a just-in-case plan!

If it is only one more blimey weeknight meal you need to survive, I have got you covered — evaporated milk. Yup.

This stuff is shelf stable for years, can be used in baking when mixed half and half with water, and it replaces milk in any recipe.

Use it for that fussy friend who only likes cream in his coffee if you are a skim milk kind of keeper. It can also go the other way and make a savoury cream sauce for pasta or to top vegetables.

Still fortified with vitamin D, it has twice the calcium and protein as regular milk but is less expensive and less perishable.

Honestly, you can't really go wrong having a couple of cans on hand. Just be sure you aren't picking up a can of sweetened condensed milk because that is also made by heating and evaporating milk but it is also laden with sugar.

We can debate the "go dairy free, everyone's allergic to it" concept and the "calcium isn't absorbable from dairy" idea later. For now, you have to make something for dinner and have very little going on in the fridge and with inspiration. Melt one tablespoon butter, whisk in one tablespoon flour, add a can of creamy magic and season if and as you wish. Just don't boil it! Unlike cream, it can't take the heat.

THERESA ALBERT IS A FOOD COMMUNICATIONS SPECIALIST AND PRIVATE NUTRITIONIST IN TORONTO. SHE IS @THERESAALBERT ON TWITTER AND FOUND DAILY AT MYFRIENDINFOOD.COM

Spaghetti Squash 'Alfredo': Creamy and healthy comfort

THERESA ALBERT
myfriendinfood.com

You know you love pasta with cream sauce — everyone does. But the carbs and calories, oye!

This quick dish gives you that deep, warm, creamy pleasure without all the guilt. It comes together in a snap.

Evaporated milk delivers twice the calcium and protein of the same amount of whole milk. It is creamy but much lower in fat and calories. You can't lose with this quick weeknight vegetarian meal.

If you don't have the spaghetti squash, just make pasta and call it a day.

Ingredients

- 1 small spaghetti squash
- 1 tbsp butter
- 8 oz sliced mushroom
- 1 1/2 tbsp flour
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 can evaporated milk
- 1 tsp freshly ground black pepper
- salt, to taste
- pinch dried chili flakes
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

1. Pierce squash with a fork and place in microwave on a plate. Cook for 15-18 minutes until quite soft. When cooked, slice open carefully to let steam escape.

2. Meanwhile, heat a large skillet; add 1 tsp of butter and quickly brown mushrooms over high heat, set aside.

3. In the same skillet, turn heat to medium, melt the rest of the butter and whisk in flour, stirring until it bubbles and starts to brown.

4. Stir in garlic and cook for 30 seconds and then whisk in evaporated milk. Whisk until it thickens 2-4 minutes over medium-high heat. Do not boil!

This recipe serves four. COURTESY THERESA ALBERT

5. Scoop out seeds from squash and discard. Pull fibres with a fork and stir into creamy sauce. Add pepper, salt and chili flakes, top with cheese. THERESA ALBERT IS A FOOD COMMUNICATIONS SPECIALIST AND TORONTO PERSONAL NUTRITIONIST. SHE IS @THERESAALBERT ON TWITTER AND FOUND DAILY AT MYFRIENDINFOOD.COM

Reading is the one transit solution we can all agree on.
NATIONAL READING CAMPAIGN
Reading gets us places. Help us take reading to a whole new level at nationalreadingcampaign.ca
TD
metro
TORONTO STAR
thestar.com
Strong Supporters of Literacy

Pass the chickpeas and pasta, please

This large vegetarian salad, featuring chickpeas (also known as garbanzo beans), would be great on its own for lunch or as a side dish for dinner. The recipe is easily cut in half.

1. In a large bowl, combine pasta, chickpeas, celery, carrots, red peppers, green onions and feta. Toss lightly to mix well. Add dressing and toss to coat well. (Make ahead: Pasta mixture can be prepared a day in advance. Refrigerate overnight and toss with dressing before serving.) THE CANADIAN PRESS/ PULSECANADA.COM

Nutritional info

149 calories; 5 g protein; 2 g fat (1 g saturated fat); 3 mg cholesterol; 27 g carbohydrates; 4 g fibre; 227 mg sodium

This recipe makes 13 servings (250 ml/1 cup each). THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ingredients

- 1 l (4 cups) cooked corkscrew pasta, drained and cooled
- 1 can (540 ml/19 oz) chickpeas, drained and rinsed
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) chopped celery
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) shredded carrots
- 2 sweet red peppers, chopped
- 4 green onions, finely chopped
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) crumbled feta cheese
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) light Greek salad dressing

CFL

Argos bid adieu to DT Mitchell

The Toronto Argonauts released all-star defensive tackle Khalif Mitchell on Monday.

The CFL club didn't provide a reason for the move but a league source requesting anonymity said it was to allow Mitchell to pursue NFL opportunities.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Terry Trafford

T.O. police believe missing OHLer still stateside

Toronto police say there's no indication a 20-year-old Ontario Hockey League player with a Michigan team who's been reported missing has entered Canada.

Police say it's believed Terry Trafford, a centre with the Saginaw Spirit in Saginaw, Mich., may have left the state to return to his hometown of Toronto.

But Toronto Const. Victor Kwong says authorities have no record of Trafford crossing the border.

The team says Trafford was last seen March 4 in Saginaw. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL

Stars' Peverley collapses in game

Dallas Stars centre Rich Peverley collapsed on the bench in the middle of a game.

Peverley was later taken to a hospital and the game between the Stars and Columbus Blue Jackets was postponed.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Grapes: I won't be squeezed for changes

Hockey Night In Canada. Don Cherry vows Coach's Corner segment will continue its past formula

JESSICA SMITH CROSS
Metro in Toronto

Don Cherry made a few things clear on Monday: no one tells him what to do, he'll never change and Hockey Night In Canada should be always aired on the CBC.

Rogers announced Monday that George Stroumboulopoulos will be the new host of Hockey Night in Canada and that Cherry will continue on Coach's Corner with Ron MacLean, who will also have an expanded role hosting the Hometown Hockey Community Celebration on Sunday night.

Sportnet's Daren Millard will host Wednesday Night Hockey and Jeff Marek, also of Sportsnet, will host Thursday Night Hockey and Friday Night Hockey.

While CBC will air HNIC on Saturdays, Rogers maintains control and the profits. Rogers will carry 500 regular-season games across 13 networks and seven platforms, plus the playoffs including the Stanley Cup Final.

Asked what he thinks of the "new team" he'll be working with, Cherry said he wasn't too sure yet and offered an anecdote about posing for a Rogers photographer, alongside the other hockey media personalities a few minutes earlier.

"It's strange for me to have that photographer say, 'You stand there,' and I look back to Hockey Night in Canada and Ron, and it's like, 'Would you move?' I'm not used to being told what to do," he said. "I'm not about to be told now what to do.

"It does seem strange. It hasn't hit me yet. They said you have to take that picture, I said what picture — it's for Rogers."

One thing Grapes says he does know is Coach's Corner won't change.

"Never," he said. "After all these years I don't know how to change, to tell you the truth."

Grapes said he'd like to see HNIC aired on CBC because of the broadcaster's mandate for nationwide coverage.

Much of the new HNIC has roots in the CBC — the show itself, Stroumboulopoulos and the Rogers VP in charge of the deal, Scott Moore.

Cherry was asked what he thinks that says about the state of public and private broadcasting in Canada.

"I don't know about that, I'm not that clever," he said. "I know they (Rogers) paid a lot of money for the thing, so it must be doing something right."

Stroumboulopoulos said he'll be hosting from a fan's perspective and facilitating conversations, and won't be offering expert analysis.

"I didn't play the game at the level of champion, so I wouldn't offer the advice of a guy who played NHL hockey," he said. "I couldn't even make a minor team."

Stroumboulopoulos got his start as a sports reporter and he's been a Habs fan since he was five and "the Habs were good — which quickly went away," he said.

George Stroumboulopoulos, Jeff Marek, Daren Millard, Ron MacLean and Don Cherry speak during Monday's press conference in Toronto. JESSICA SMITH CROSS/METRO

Clothes make the man

"Well, my suits and that, to start with. No, I really have no idea. If I did, I'd probably screw it up."

Don Cherry, on why the public likes him.

4 SPORTS

Roll of the dice helps McKeever win gold medal

Cross-country skiing. Visually impaired Alberta athlete reaps reward of swapping guides earlier than he had planned to

Brian McKeever decided to take a gamble and the payoff was Canada's first gold medal at the Sochi Paralympics.

The cross-country skier won the men's 20-kilometre visually impaired event Monday thanks in part to a risky move at the midway point of the race. The eight-time Paralympic gold medallist — who has been battling a virus since arriving in Russia last week — started with guide Erik Carleton before switching to alternate Graham Nishikawa at the 10-kilometre mark amid sloppy conditions and warm temperatures.

It was a play McKeever had never before attempted in competition.

"Today was great," said McKeever. "It was really tough. Being sick last week made it hard and definitely made us a little nervous. It was huge team effort having two guides out there sharing the work. It was definitely needed. They were the ones that got me through today because I couldn't have done that on my own.

"The snow being what it was, it was much faster to be in behind. Those guys were, unfortunately for them, working pretty damn hard."

The 34-year-old from Canmore, Alta., finished in a time of 52 minutes 37.1 seconds with the help of a plan he devised with his coach and brother Robin.

The idea was for Carleton to guide the first 12 kilometres before giving way to Nishikawa. But when Carleton began to fade earlier than expected, Nishikawa stepped in to finish the job and lead McKeever to a victory of more than a minute over Russia's Stanislav Chokhlaev. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian Brian McKeever, right, and guide Graham Nishikawa compete in the men's visually impaired 20-kilometre race at the Sochi 2014 Paralympic Winter Games on Monday. McKeever went on to win gold. SCOTT GRANT/CANADIAN PARALYMPIC COMMITTEE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Blame lifted from dead skicross racer

Canadian skicross racer Nik Zoricic was killed two years ago in a crash during a World Cup event. JONATHAN HAYWARD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The family of a Canadian skicross racer killed two years ago at a World Cup event feels vindicated now that sport authorities no longer blame him for the tragedy and instead have made safety improvements to course design, their lawyer said Monday.

Lawyer Tim Danson said the family of Nik Zoricic feels his legacy has become something positive and to be celebrated.

"We were not prepared to accept that Nik was responsible for his own death," Danson told The Canadian Press.

"We just wanted the truth to be acknowledged."

In the immediate aftermath of his fatal crash at an event in Grindelwald, Switzerland, on March 10, 2012, ski officials angered the family and others in the skiing community by suggesting Zoricic, 29, was to blame for his death.

The family responded by arguing the death was "entirely avoidable" and blasted the course finish line for being a "death trap."

In a letter to his parents this month, the International Ski Federation called Zoricic a "talented, experienced, and skilled" World Cup skier who did not take unnecessary risks.

"It would therefore not be right to describe his accident as a 'freak accident' or 'pilot error,'" the federation's president and secretary general wrote.

The letter further states that the federation has updated its safety guidelines and beefed up the staff and experts who help organizers construct a course and its safety measures. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fatal crash

Nik Zoricic was competing in his 36th event in Grindelwald when he was killed at the finish line of a tight three-way race.

- He was travelling 90 km/h when he veered to the right after the final jump, landing about a metre to the right of the official course line in "crud" rather than on a groomed shoulder.
- He snagged safety netting and tumbled into hard-packed snow, smashing his head.

MLB

Cabrera takes Cards deep twice

Miguel Cabrera hit his first two home runs of spring training and Max Scherzer struck out five in 4 2/3 scoreless innings Monday during the Detroit Tigers' 17-5 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MLB

Bonds back with Giants for short stay

Barry Bonds is wearing a San Francisco Giants uniform once again, now as a hitting coach at spring training.

The career home runs leader joined his former team Monday at camp for a week-long stay.

Bonds, 49, appeared slimmer than he did during his last 15 seasons playing for San Francisco, where he finished in 2007 with 762 homers. "It feels really good to get back to the game that I love," Bonds said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Barry Bonds THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennis

Wozniak advances at Indian Wells

Aleksandra Wozniak reached the fourth-round of the BNP Paribas Open on Monday with a 6-1, 6-7 (3-7), 6-0 defeat of Russia's Anastasia Pavlyuchenkova. She will next face world No. 2 and top seed Li Na. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL

Luongo joins sunny disposition in Fla.

Roberto Luongo's future looks a lot brighter now that he's in Florida.

While the Canucks, who dealt him last week at the trade deadline, head in the direction of a rebuild, the Panthers look like a team on the upward climb thanks to new owner Vinny Viola and a cadre of young prospects GM Dale Tallon has assembled in the NHL's southernmost market.

Luongo sees potential stars in Jonathan Huberdeau, Nick Bjugstad and a handful more young players around the locker-room. At 34 years old, he wants to contribute to the revival of the franchise rather than riding coattails. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
A relationship that has been okay in the past will turn difficult today. There may be no apparent reason why it has suddenly gone sour but don't make an issue of it. Most likely it is just a passing phase.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Base partnerships, both personal and professional, on mutual respect, because if you try to take liberties with friends, loved ones or work colleagues today you may pay dearly for it.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
This is a good time for creative activities, especially those where some sort of communication is concerned. Make sure you spell out what you are trying to say. Not everyone possesses your brain power.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
This can be and should be one of the most productive times of the year. The harder you work at making your dreams come true the quicker you will reach your goals.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Try not to worry about personal or money problems. The cosmic picture suggests that your state of mind will be much more positive after next weekend's full moon.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You will be in a serious mood today as Mercury, your ruler, squares up to Saturn. Things you once believed in will be called into question and so-called "facts" will no longer stand up. It's time to get real.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
The past few weeks have been tough and the next 24 hours is likely to bring challenges too, but nothing will happen that you don't have the intelligence and the courage to overcome.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
The message of the stars for you today is that you must not start worrying for no good reason. The challenges that come your way over the next few days will be tough but you are ten times tougher.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You are where you are for a reason, so don't start complaining that you would rather be some place else. No matter what occurs over the next 24 hours you can be sure to benefit in the long-term.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Many of the restrictions you have been labouring under in recently will get worse for a while. A crisis point will be reached for the 16th's full moon after which they will fade.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Changes on the work front may not be what you were hoping for but later in the year you will realize they were exactly what you needed, so don't be too negative about them. You'll move up soon.

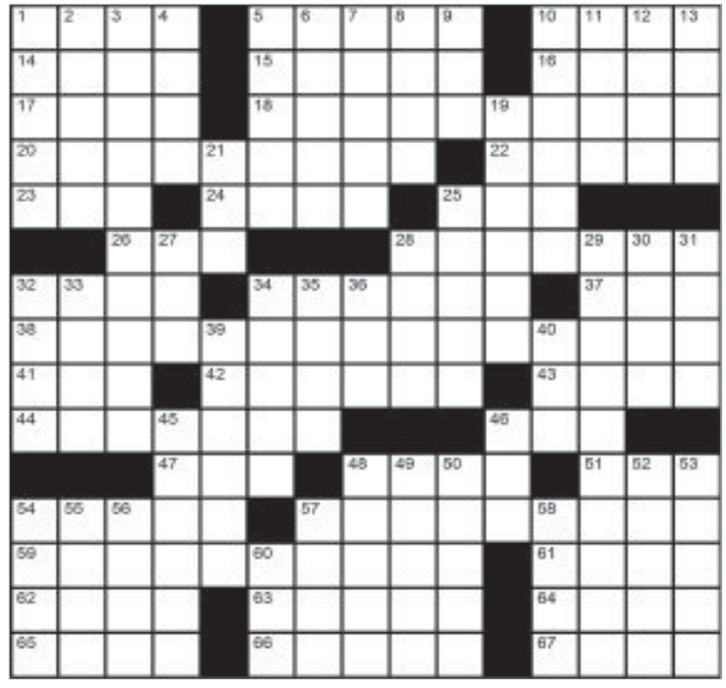
♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Be careful what you agree to over the next 24 hours because the planets warn you don't have all the facts. Don't accept what other people tell you simply because they look good and sound honest.

SALLY BROMPTON

Crossword: Canada Across and Down

See today's answers at metronews.ca/answers.

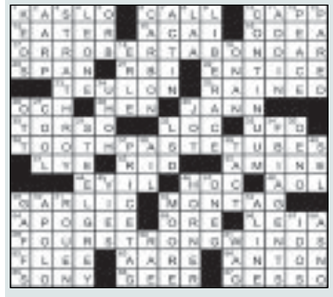
BY KELLY ANN BUCHANAN



Across
1. Loos
5. "__ the Land" by The Guess Who
10. "Don't take __ __ seriously..."
14. "Brrr! There's _ __ outside."
15. __ Notes (Literature aids)
16. Sheltered spot
17. Rate
18. Freelancer's workplace: 2 wds.
20. TVdom's Mike Brady, for one: 2 wds.
22. Pass on
23. 'Ranch' suffix
24. Floral arrangement
25. Singer Bobby
26. Alleyway animal
28. Pussycat Dolls song: 2 wds.
32. "Rock-_-__ Baby"
34. Roughriders home, __ Stadium
37. Jay Z's music
38. Coaches' seating on #25-Down: 3 wds.
41. Maritime workers' org.
42. Antarctica penguin
43. Preposition
44. __ Fields (Heavenly abode in Greek mythology)
46. Gr. behind Bob Hope's legendary shows for soldiers
47. Sun rays letters
48. Music key, _ __.
51. Lake: French
54. Humdrum
57. Plant not found in Newfoundland: 2 wds.
59. Muskokas locale in Ontario where Shania Twain played the Deerhurst Resort before hitting it big
61. __ empty stomach: 2 wds.
62. To boot
63. Computer company
64. Sell
65. __ green (Really bright colour)
66. Fix pant legs again
67. Sparkling wine from Italy

Down
1. Oversight
2. Keep __ __ of mystery
3. Tom Cochrane & Red Rider song: 2 wds.
4. Li'l requirement
5. Jerk
6. Thugs
7. Cosmetics brand
8. Clarinetist's prop
9. Paul Anka's "__ Beso (That Kiss!)"
10. How some heights and lengths are measured: 2 wds.
11. Labour
12. Dance music of the Caribbean
13. -Dokey's lead-in
19. An official language
21. Select
25. NBC's "The __"
27. Bronze Roman money
28. Surrealist painter Salvador
29. 1800s fashions undergarments
30. Actress, Melissa Joan __
31. Lhasa __ (Arf!)
32. Songstress, India.__
33. Church's sounder
34. King with a golden touch
35. Kitchen†appliance
36. Montreal seasoning
39. Foregoes
40. Three-toed sloths
45. The __ Place Hotels
46. Card game
48. Actor Mr. Lundgren
49. Thousand: French
50. "Hmmm, _ __ to remember..."
52. Before: French
53. Songstress Ms. Lauper
54. Comparison word
55. Govern
56. "__ __ doing..." (Thereby)
57. Tube
58. NS part
60. Alternate spelling, for short

Yesterday's Crossword



Sudoku

How to play
Fill in the grid, so that every row, every column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9. There is no math involved.

		2	4		9	8
	7		2		8		6
6								5
		3	9	2	6	1
		9	5	1	7	3
4								3
	5		6		3		8
		7	8		5	4

Yesterday's Sudoku

2	6	9	5	7	3	1	4	8
8	7	5	6	4	1	3	2	9
3	1	4	8	2	9	6	7	5
4	3	6	1	5	7	8	9	2
1	5	7	2	9	8	4	6	3
9	8	2	4	3	6	5	1	7
7	9	1	3	6	5	2	8	4
6	2	3	9	8	4	7	5	1
5	4	8	7	1	2	9	3	6

Today
0°/-6°
Variable

Wednesday
5°/-2°
Mainly sunny

Know what the weather will be 14 days from now.
Check the 14 day trend.
©The Weather Network 2014

Soap Stories is seeking
6 F/T Beauty Treatment Operators to sell soap & bath products in
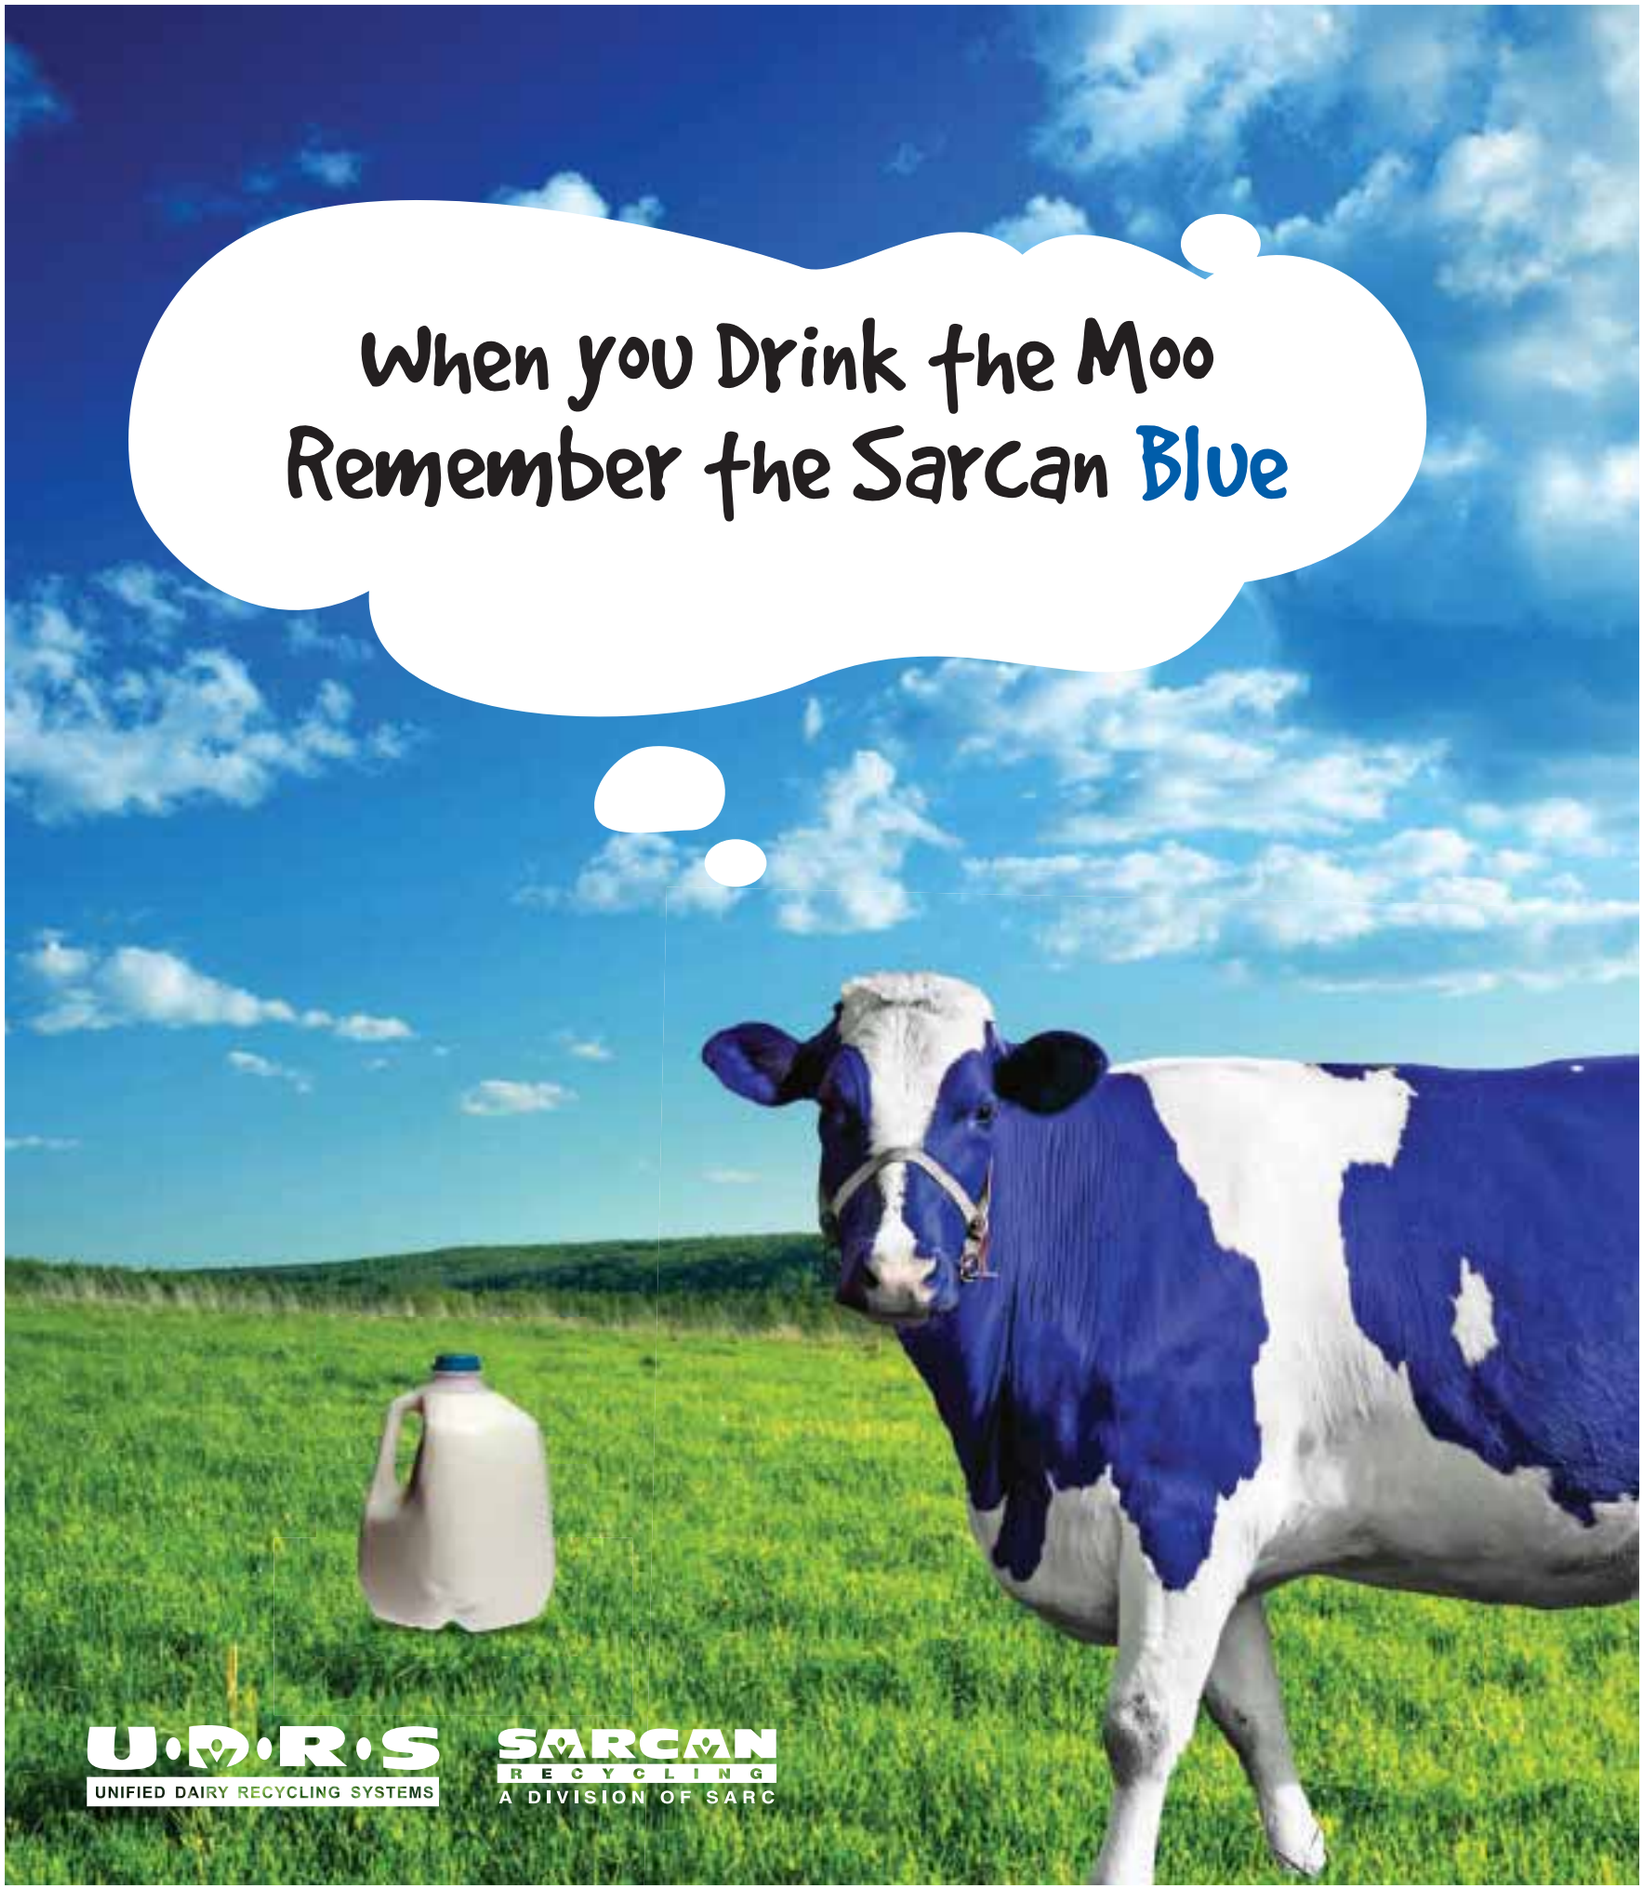
Market Mall, 2325 Preston Ave, Saskatoon.
$13.20/Hr Plus bonus & commission.
Beauty certification required.
Email : soapskbto@gmail.com

metro
News worth sharing.

Soap Stories is seeking
6 F/T Retail Sales Reps
to sell soap & bath products in
Market Mall, 2325 Preston Ave, Saskatoon.
$11.15/Hr Plus bonus & commission.
No Experience Required.
Email : soapskss@mail.com



When you Drink the Moo
Remember the Sarcan Blue
U·M·R·S
UNIFIED DAIRY RECYCLING SYSTEMS
SARCAN
RECYCLING
A DIVISION OF SARC